Moralizing and morals are two entirely different things and are always found in entirely different people

~Don Herold

Babies are such a nice way to start people.

~Don Herold

I had, out of my sixty teachers, a scant half dozen who couldn't have been supplanted by phonographs.

~Don Herold

The brighter you are, the more you have to learn.

~Don Herold

It takes a lot of things to prove you are smart, but only one thing to prove you are ignorant.

~Don Herold

Unhappiness is not knowing what we want and killing ourselves to get it.

~Don Herold

The beggar is the only person in the universe not obliged to study appearance.

~Don Herold

In all systems of theology, the devil figures as a male person.

~Don Herold

There's one thing about baldness, it's neat.

~Don Herold

Don't ever slam a door, you might want to go back.

~Don Herold

There is more sophistication and less sense in New York than anywhere else on the globe.

~Don Herold

Work is the greatest thing in the world, so we should always save some of it for tomorrow.

~Don Herold

There is something distinctive about living in New York; over eight million other people are doing it.

~Don Herold

Be kind to dumb people.

~Don Herold

Why resist temptation? There will always be more.

~Don Herold

A lot of men think that if they smile for a second, somebody will take advantage of them, and they are right.

~Don Herold

Very few people look the part and are it too.

~Don Herold

Nobody ever looked up and saw a good shot.

~Don Herold

A humorist is a person who feels bad, but who feels good about it.

~Don Herold

Gentlemen prefer blondes, but take what they can get.

~Don Herold

If I had my life to live over, I would perhaps have more actual troubles but I'd have fewer imaginary ones.

~Don Herold

If I had my life to live over, I'd pick more daisies.

~Don Herold

Be kind and considerate to others, depending somewhat upon who they are.

~Don Herold

Poverty must have many satisfactions, else there would not be so many poor people.

~Don Herold

I wish I were either rich enough or poor enough to do a lot of things that are impossible in my present comfortable circumstances.

~Don Herold

Women give us solace, but if it were not for women we should never need solace.

~Don Herold

Babies are a great way to start people.

~Don Herold

It is a good thing that life is not as serious as it seems to a waiter.

~Don Herold

Interruptions are the spice of life.

~Don Herold

Golf may be a hussy, but I love her.

~Don Herold

Golf is not sacred, and there is no use getting so gosh-darned solemn about it.

~Don Herold

This is the greatest paradox: the emotions cannot be trusted; yet it is the emotions that tell us the greatest truths.

~Don Herold

Some people have nothing but experience.

~Don Herold

The chief trouble with jazz is that there is not enough of it; some of it we have to listen to twice.

~Don Herold

Conversation: The slowest form of human communication.

~Don Herold

An honourable agreement among men as to their conduct toward women, and it was devised by women.

~Don Herold

The mind of man has no defense
To equal plain, old common sense.
This homely virtue don't despise,
If you would be happy as well as wise.

~Don Herold

Intellectuals should never marry; they won't enjoy it; and besides, they should not reproduce themselves.

~Don Herold

About the time we get old enough to be as wicked as we want to be, we don't want to be so very wicked after all.

~Don Herold

I do not believe in doing for pleasure things I do not like to do.
