What we have to do is to definitively remove the last vestiges of power from those who treat terms such as liberal democracy, free markets and Europe with suspicion.

~Donald Tusk

I spent an important part of my life participating in conflicts. But for me, conflict was not the main principle.

~Donald Tusk

We must go beyond being reactive and defensive. As Europeans we must regain our self-confidence and realize our own strengths.

~Donald Tusk

Over the years, the European Union and the United States have worked together to ensure peace and prosperity for our citizens and for people around the world.

~Donald Tusk

My Kashubian family, like the Jews, are people who were born and live in border areas and were suspected by the Nazis and by the Communists of being disloyal.

~Donald Tusk

We should remind our American friends of their own motto: United we stand. Divided, we fall.

~Donald Tusk

I got into politics a little bit by chance, as a person from the first generation of the Solidarity movement.

~Donald Tusk

My government is in no sense anti-Russian.

~Donald Tusk

I am glad that Angela Merkel is the German Chancellor, as she tries to combine a sense of responsibility with morality and values. Because this is the essence of Europe.

~Donald Tusk

Poles must understand history but we must also overcome it if it is obstructing our contemporary goals.

~Donald Tusk

The strategic partnership between the European Union and the United States is rooted in our shared values of freedom, human rights, democracy and a belief in the market economy.

~Donald Tusk

Poland is not a very large country, but it's also not a small country.

~Donald Tusk

Im plain incapable of getting angry with Angela Merkel and likewise.

~Donald Tusk

For Poland, the United States is the most important ally.

~Donald Tusk

Poland is quite a mediocre country in some regards. The only natural resource that we have, and with which we can compete, is freedom.

~Donald Tusk
