Dorothea Dix Quotes

Every evil has its good, and every ill an antidote.

~Dorothea Dix

Of all the calamities to which humanity is subject, none is so dreadful as insanity. ... All experience shows that insanity seasonably treated is as certainly curable as a cold or a fever.

~Dorothea Dix

I have learned to live each day as it comes, and not to borrow trouble by dreading tomorrow.

~Dorothea Dix

Man is not made better by being degraded.

~Dorothea Dix

Be of good cheer, for sadness cannot heal the national wounds.

~Dorothea Dix

I have no particular love for my species, but own to an exhaustless fund of compassion

~Dorothea Dix

I think even lying on my bed I can still do something.

~Dorothea Dix

The tapestry of history has no point at which you can cut it and leave the design intelligible.

~Dorothea Dix

But the truth is the highest consideration.

~Dorothea Dix

A man usually values that most for which he has labored; he uses that most frugally which he has toiled hour by hour and day by day to
