I wonder a lot about making things meaningful. You want to do meaningful work and make art, but you're making records, which is good, but you don't want to weight them - it's a very curious thing.

~Doseone

That was how I got into music and art was being a battle kid from Jersey, so I didn't have these wonderful ways of learning commitment, dedication, practicing skill.

~Doseone

I am not concerned about the 80 BMP consistency law of popular music. I'm concerned with other things, and they're very valid.

~Doseone

I'm at best on stage. It's one of the only places where I actually can feel like a million bucks.

~Doseone

Being on stage, it's like, "Ooo-kay, now I remember why all this is going wrong or right!" It's very much my element.

~Doseone

I can deal with all the pangs of having to find money in 20 different places because you don't really reap the whirlwind with this cutting-edge music.

~Doseone

I'd love to sign a contract for the soundtracks to every Wes Anderson movie, you know what I'm saying? Things like that, I have no spots on my conscience about.

~Doseone

Whether it's just the career path of doing independent music, being an artist, however you want to pigeon-hole it, it creates a certain type of character.

~Doseone

The reason I can do what I do on stage is because I couldn't fake it.

~Doseone

At best doing art you feel like you're led by something that doesn't involve you.

~Doseone

You can always find the sample that covers what you're hearing, but barely...it allows me to really concentrate on words.

~Doseone

I change my direction, I can't even help it. It's sort of like the fortune and misfortune of being a rapper.

~Doseone

I'm not the kind of artist that wants to get a sound, refine it, and do it 'til I'm 50 so that it's the purest amber of my one way.

~Doseone

I love the inappropriateness of age-old wisdom in modern slang. These things are all so wonderful to me.

~Doseone

With freestyling it's not about "Say something funny!" That has nothing to do with it. It's about becoming quicker on your feet and knowing that your entire day can go into your rap if you're on it.

~Doseone

Recording is a lengthy process, but onstage it's completely different; tape is not running - life is running, and cannot be rewind.

~Doseone

I've always been aggressive and an underdog, and my dad was worried that I would always be that: constantly seeking inspiration from negativity.

~Doseone

A lot of artists make art for five years, some artists make art for ten years, a few make art for fifteen: very few do it until they die.

~Doseone

I know what love is because I lost it at an early age.

~Doseone

I MAY NOT BE MUCH ELSE IN THIS WORLD BUT I GUARANTEE YOU I AM GETTING INTO RAPPER HEAVEN.
