Filmmaking is incredible introspective. It forces you to sort of examine yourself in new ways.

~Drew Goddard

We've always been a band who's taken forever to do things. After writing 'Persona' I think we wrote about four songs in three years!

~Drew Goddard

The truth is, writing and directing are two very different jobs. They're not even remotely the same job. It took me a while, as a director, to understand that.

~Drew Goddard

I've found that if you just try to make the film you want, you'll find the right audience. If you try to please everyone, you're going to make really boring films.

~Drew Goddard

The more work you put in on your outline and getting the skeleton of your story right, the easier the process is later.

~Drew Goddard

This is what I do for fun - brainstorm about monsters!

~Drew Goddard

I do love writing but it is a lonely profession. You're lonely and optimistic at the same time.

~Drew Goddard

The greatest villain of all time is The Joker - he always has been, and I don't know anyone who's not going to have Heath Ledger's performance burnt into their brains for the rest of their lives.

~Drew Goddard

I happen to like things that are funny and dramatic at the same time. I don't see the difference.

~Drew Goddard

Everything I've ever worked on has been hard to classify.

~Drew Goddard

The most fun characters to work with are characters that are complicated.

~Drew Goddard

I don't like nihilistic characters. As bad guys they're great, but as heroes they don't work.

~Drew Goddard

In a weird way, it's much easier, when I don't have to worry about being a writer, to just worry about the director job, which is really fun.

~Drew Goddard

I just go with what excites me.

~Drew Goddard

What I'm looking for in my career, you know? You're looking for those lightning bolts of inspiration where someone says something that sparks an idea or suggests something strange.

~Drew Goddard

That's kind of how I've based my career. I find talented people and beg me to let me work with them.

~Drew Goddard

It's so rare that you meet your idols and they outdo your expectations.

~Drew Goddard

I do feel there's certainly some films where you can feel that the directors don't care about the genre and they don't care about their characters.

~Drew Goddard

I try not to get too cute for cute's sake.

~Drew Goddard

I love superheroes and I love weird horror films... I could definitely feel that there was a lack of movies like The Martian being made: smart genre movies that can appeal to adults.
