And I used to say, 'I'm black, too.' In other words, I - my whole life I've been called a half-breed, a convict, king of the trailer trash, this and that. I take that and stand.

~Duane Chapman

As a bounty hunter, I have to dress the part. If I came to the door and looked like Carrot Top, you'd laugh.

~Duane Chapman

I have the utmost respect and aloha for black people who have already suffered so much due to racial discrimination and acts of hatred.

~Duane Chapman

Born on a mountain, raised in a cave. Arresting fugitives is all I crave.

~Duane Chapman

I need to get a greater vocabulary than what I have and when I get mad and my brain searches for a word. I have to find different words and to do that you need to have more of an education.

~Duane Chapman

I have a hard problem, being some part Native American - being a Christian: do you get burned, do you get cremated, do you get - let the sharks eat you? How do you die?

~Duane Chapman

Six men can carry you or 12 men can judge you. You decide!

~Duane Chapman

Where mercy is shown, mercy is given.

~Duane Chapman

I'm very emotional. That's why I wear shades a lot.

~Duane Chapman

You know God gives me that inner strength that super strength to get through things.

~Duane Chapman

I've been a biker, I've been a convict, I've been a husband, father, and son.

~Duane Chapman

I say to all fathers - be as good as you can be- because your sons and daughters will follow in your footsteps.

~Duane Chapman

Dog is God spelled backward.

~Duane Chapman

In Hawaii, we have something called Ho'oponopono, where people come together to resolve crises and restore peace and balance.

~Duane Chapman

I've always taken pride to be the white guy that can talk to the black people, that can refer to them truly as a brother from a different mother.

~Duane Chapman

I'm going to be Dog, and I'm going to be an entertainer. And I'm going to make mistakes.

~Duane Chapman

The closest thing to hell on earth is prison. It's the worst experience I've ever had in my life. Besides death.

~Duane Chapman

I'm marrying my common-law wife, Beth, the Christian way, with a preacher and all that.

~Duane Chapman

I'm Native American, so it's in my blood to always want brothers and friends. I'm a good brotherhood guy.

~Duane Chapman

I was in prison for a charge in Texas, murder one. Back in the '70s in Texas, I was there. I heard the shot. I was in the car.

~Duane Chapman

It's just like being a father; you got to show them love and you got to show them the path. I don't like this role-model stuff, though.
