

Edmond Rostand

Quotes

Kissing, Heart, Men, Flower, Love You, Soul, Sweet, Beautiful, Dream, Doubt, Noses, Taken, Mustache, Dots, War, Fashion, Love, Secret, Letters, Witty

My wit is sharper than the finest mustache, and when I walk among men I make truths ring like spurs.

~Edmond Rostand

A kiss, when all is said, what is it? A rosy dot placed on the 'l' in loving; Tis a secret told to the mouth instead of to the ear.

~Edmond Rostand

The dream, alone, is of interest. What is life without a dream?

~Edmond Rostand

It is at night that faith in light is admirable.

~Edmond Rostand

My heart always timidly hides itself behind my mind. I set out to bring down stars from the sky, then, for fear of ridicule, I stop and pick little flowers of eloquence.

~Edmond Rostand

A large nose is in fact the sign of an affable man, good, courteous, witty, liberal, courageous, such as I am.

~Edmond Rostand

A kiss is a secret which takes the lips for the ear.

~Edmond Rostand

I-I am going to be a storm-a flame- I need to fight whole armies alone; I have ten hearts; I have a hundred arms; I feel too strong to war with mortals- BRING ME GIANTS!

~Edmond Rostand

I am what I am because early in life I decided that I would please at least myself in all things.

~Edmond Rostand

To offend is my pleasure; I love to be hated.

~Edmond Rostand

A great nose may be an index Of a great soul

~Edmond Rostand

A pessimist is a man who tells the truth prematurely.

~Edmond Rostand

You must believe me when I believe, and not when I doubt.

~Edmond Rostand

I would die at the stake rather than change a semi-colon!

~Edmond Rostand

A kiss is a rosy dot placed on the "i" in loving.

~Edmond Rostand

To joke in the face of danger is the supreme politeness, a delicate refusal to cast oneself as a tragic hero.

~Edmond Rostand

My wit is more polished than your mustache. The truth which I speak strikes more sparks from men's hearts than your spurs do from the cobblestones.

~Edmond Rostand

No, In fairy tales When to the ill-starred Prince the lady says 'I love you!' all his ugliness fades fast But I remain the same, up to the last!

~Edmond Rostand

Your name hangs in my heart like a bell's tongue.

~Edmond Rostand

Take it, and turn to facts my fantasies.

~Edmond Rostand

Proclaim your pride and bitterness loudly to the world, but to me speak softly, and tell me simply that she doesn't love you.

~Edmond Rostand

A man does not fight to win; it is better to fight in vain.

~Edmond Rostand

A bird who can gobble is qualified to teach crowing.

~Edmond Rostand

I loved but once, yet twice I lose my love!

~Edmond Rostand

And if kisses in these words could travel too, Madam, you'd read this letter with your lips.

~Edmond Rostand

All our souls are written in our eyes.

~Edmond Rostand

Stay awhile! 'Tis sweet,. . . The rare occasion, when our hearts can speak Our selves unseen, unseeing!

~Edmond Rostand

My soul, be satisfied with flowers, with fruit, with weeds even; but gather them in the one garden you may call your own.

~Edmond Rostand

Your neck. I want to kiss it.

~Edmond Rostand

Speak to me...be eloquent, be brilliant for me. Improvise! Rhapsodize!...
I ask for cream and you give me milk and water... Please gather your dreams together into words. - Roxanne, Cyrano de Bergerac

~Edmond Rostand

Related Links:

- Kissing Quotes
- Heart Quotes
- Men Quotes
- Flower Quotes
- Love You Quotes
- Soul Quotes
- Sweet Quotes
- Beautiful Quotes
- Dream Quotes
- Doubt Quotes
- Noses Quotes
- Taken Quotes
- Mustache Quotes
- Dots Quotes
- War Quotes
- Fashion Quotes
- Love Quotes
- Secret Quotes
- Letters Quotes
- Witty Quotes