I find I always have to write something on a steamed mirror.

~Elaine Dundy

A rowdy bunch on the whole, they were most of them so violently individualistic as to be practically interchangeable.

~Elaine Dundy

Acting doesn't bring anything to a text. On the contrary, it detracts from it.

~Elaine Dundy

I hate champagne more than anything in the world next to Seven-Up.

~Elaine Dundy

It's amazing how right you can be about a person you don't know; it's only the people you do know who confuse you.

~Elaine Dundy

I always expect people to behave much better than I do. When they actually behave worse, I am frankly incredulous.

~Elaine Dundy

That's my answer to the question what is your strongest emotion, if you ever want to ask me: Curiosity, old bean. Curiosity every time.

~Elaine Dundy

What's the use of remembering anything? If it was unpleasant it was unpleasant and if it was pleasant it's over.

~Elaine Dundy

I've never wanted to meet anyone I've been introduced to. I want to meet all the other people.

~Elaine Dundy

... I was merely a disinterested spectator at the Banquet of Life.

~Elaine Dundy

The world is wide, wide, wide, and I am young, young, young, and we're all going to live forever!

~Elaine Dundy

Oh, Teddy, darling, thank you, thank you, for restoring my cynicism. I was too young to lose it.

~Elaine Dundy

I don't always understand other people's motives. I will repeat that for my own benefit, if you don't mind. I don't always understand other people's motives.

~Elaine Dundy
