Obviously, if you don't love life, you can't enjoy an oyster.

~Eleanor Clark

How smartly September comes in, like a racing gig, all style, no confusion.

~Eleanor Clark

The fresh start is always an illusion but a necessary one.

~Eleanor Clark

Even the stupidest cat seems to know more than any dog.

~Eleanor Clark

Anybody who's against birth control and abortion has to be a criminal idiot.

~Eleanor Clark

It is like a party all the time; nobody has to worry about giving one or being invited; it is going on every day in the street and you can go down or be part of it from your window.

~Eleanor Clark

Rome is ... an impossible compounding of time, in which no century has respect for any other and all hit you in a jumble at every turn.

~Eleanor Clark

Doubt remains a luxury I won't do without.

~Eleanor Clark

Even a tourist can tell in a Roman street that he is in something and not outside of something as he would be in most cities. In Rome to go out is to go home.

~Eleanor Clark

Shame can be self-indulgence too.

~Eleanor Clark

Music or the color of the sea are easier to describe than the taste of one of these Armoricaines.

~Eleanor Clark

To be first-rate at anything you have to stake your all. Nobody's an artist 'on the side'.

~Eleanor Clark

I think you write only out of a great trouble. A trouble of excitement, a trouble of enlargement, a trouble of displacement in yourself.

~Eleanor Clark

Rome is everybody's memory.
