Morning has broken Like the first morning. Blackbird has spoken Like the first bird.

~Eleanor Farjeon

It always gives me a shiver when I see a cat seeing what I can't see.

~Eleanor Farjeon

All the ill that is in us comes from fear, and all the good from love.

~Eleanor Farjeon

We do not lose our friends when they die, we only lose sight of them.

~Eleanor Farjeon

The events of childhood do not pass but repeat themselves like seasons of the year.

~Eleanor Farjeon

It seems to me there are no rules, only instances; but perhaps that is because I learned no rules, and am only an instance myself.

~Eleanor Farjeon

Upon your shattered ruins where, This vine will flourish still, as rare, As fresh, as fragrant as of old. Love will not crumble.

~Eleanor Farjeon

No love-story has ever been told twice. I never heard any tale of lovers that did not seem to me as new as the world on its first morning.

~Eleanor Farjeon

Cats sleep Anywhere, Any table, Any chair, Top of piano,
Window-ledge, In the middle, On the edge.

~Eleanor Farjeon

He bent his head and kissed her long and deeply, and in that kiss

neither knew themselves, or even each other, but something beyond all consciousness that was both of them.

~Eleanor Farjeon

In love there are no penalties and no payments, and what is given is indistinguishable from what is received.

~Eleanor Farjeon

On Hallowe'en the old ghosts come about us, and they speak to some; to others they are dumb.

~Eleanor Farjeon

It's no use crying over spilt evils. It's better to mop them up laughing.

~Eleanor Farjeon

Of troubles know I none, Of pleasures know I many - I rove beneath the sun, Without a single penny.

~Eleanor Farjeon

Of what use to destroy the children of evil? It is evil itself we must destroy at the roots.

~Eleanor Farjeon

In Fleet Street, in Fleet Street, the People are so fleet, They barely touch the cobble-stones with their nimble feet!

~Eleanor Farjeon

Ecstasy cannot be constant, or it would kill.

~Eleanor Farjeon

Praise with elation Praise every morning Spring's re-creation Of the First Day!

~Eleanor Farjeon
