What do you do with your anger when the person you're mad at goes off and dies? Bury it? Bury it inside you?

~Elizabeth Chandler

Some people fall head over heels. Other people begin to fall without even knowing it—love grows like a spring flower beneath last autumn's leaves and catches them by surprise.

~Elizabeth Chandler

I glanced up at him. "I love things that are beautiful when you don't expect them to be.

~Elizabeth Chandler

The problem for me is that I can't ever really see who Gregory is, any more than I can see what a mirror by itself looks like, because he reflects whoever's around him.

~Elizabeth Chandler

...you can't always choose how you love a person. Love isn't logical or fair. It just happens.

~Elizabeth Chandler

When you love someone, it's never over. You move on, because you have to but you take them with you in your heart old grudges and bitterness always hurt the individual more than the one whom he believes injured him.

~Elizabeth Chandler

~Elizabeth Chandler

Creativity is no excuse for obnoxious behavior

~Elizabeth Chandler

Everyday, every hour, I have held you close in my heart.

~Elizabeth Chandler

Hey, does my stupidity give you the right to bruise a tender heart?"
"Yeah, yeah. I'm bruising a heart made of Play-Doh.

~Elizabeth Chandler

We sat in silence, both of us looking up at the stars. He was probably envisioning a machine headed for Pluto. I wished i was on that machine.

~Elizabeth Chandler

dreams are shadows cast by truth shining on our darkest secrets

~Elizabeth Chandler

I'm sorry that you're still hurting.

~Elizabeth Chandler

Was he still, somehow, watching over her?

~Elizabeth Chandler

Her joy with him was like nothing she had ever experienced. His love for her felt like a miracle.

~Elizabeth Chandler

Good people were also capable of doing very bad things.

~Elizabeth Chandler

The truth was, it was myself I couldn't trust, my eyes from betraying my heart.

~Elizabeth Chandler

I think I'm dying to get to know a particular guy. Then he opens his mouth and ruins it.

~Elizabeth Chandler

Every night she had fallen asleep dreaming about that kiss, and each kiss after.

~Elizabeth Chandler

I love the book legacy of lies it amazing and is fun to read over and over again

~Elizabeth Chandler

I leaned back against him and rested my cheek on his shoulder. I could feel the river water dripping off of him. "Thank you" I whispered. When I looked up, I saw he was crying.

~Elizabeth Chandler

It was Nick's voice Nick's arms. He turned me on my back and swam with me, pulling me to the bank.

~Elizabeth Chandler

You've grown up, girl. You've grown up real nice, Welcome home

~Elizabeth Chandler

I took a step back. "Here." He plunked his wet hat on my head. "Don't go anywhere," he told me, then turned away.

~Elizabeth Chandler

You've changed," he said. "You're-uh-" "Yes?" "Taller." "I hope so. I was ten the last time you saw me." "And your hair's really dark now-and short," he added.

~Elizabeth Chandler

I should have known it. You still have those chocolate-kiss eyes.

~Elizabeth Chandler

Ten, I thought, he's definitely a ten

~Elizabeth Chandler

Words are precious things meant to create, to imagine, to dream with.

~Elizabeth Chandler

Endings are beginnings, and beginnings are ours to turn into something good.

~Elizabeth Chandler

People fear anyone who differs from what is considered normal, and in a small town the idea of normal can be as narrow as the streets.

~Elizabeth Chandler

Don't worry," I replied, "I usually don't argue with the voices.

~Elizabeth Chandler

Change can be good. It just depends on what we make of it.

~Elizabeth Chandler
