But calm, white calm, was born into a swan.

~Elizabeth Jane Coatsworth

When I dream, I am ageless.

~Elizabeth Jane Coatsworth

The sunset caught me, turned the brush to copper,/ set the clouds/ to one great roof of flame/ above the earth.

~Elizabeth Jane Coatsworth

Outwardly I am 83, but inwardly I am every age, with the emotions and experience of each period.

~Elizabeth Jane Coatsworth

Only of one thing I am sure: when I dream I am always ageless.

~Elizabeth Jane Coatsworth

I saw the lovely arch Of rainbow span the sky, The gold sun burning As the rain swept by.

~Elizabeth Jane Coatsworth

there is something dangerous about mirrors. ... What dynamite we handle when we lift a mirror or bend towards one! I seldom do.

~Elizabeth Jane Coatsworth

During much of my life, I was anxious to be what someone else wanted me to be. Now I have given up that struggle. I am what I am.

~Elizabeth Jane Coatsworth

Little I ask And that little is not granted." There are few crumbs In this world any more.

~Elizabeth Jane Coatsworth

To a life that seizes Upon content, Locality seems But accident.

~Elizabeth Jane Coatsworth

At a touch, he explodes like a snapdragon into loud purrs.

~Elizabeth Jane Coatsworth

People don't feel so quarrelsome in warm weather. They get crotchety in the fall and begin to go to law about things after the first hard frosts.
