We need days of failure because they help humble us, and through them we can see how God's grace is poured out on the humble.

~Elyse Fitzpatrick

Maturity in the Christian life is measured by only one test: how much closer to his character have we become?

~Elyse Fitzpatrick

I wish I hated my own sin as much as I hate everyone else's.

~Elyse Fitzpatrick

Idols aren't stone statues. They are thoughts, desires, and longings that we worship in the place of the true God

~Elyse Fitzpatrick

Conviction of sin draws me away from myself and toward God
Self-condemnation, on the other hand, draws me down into myself and away from God.

~Elyse Fitzpatrick

Believe that God is strong enough to save your children, no matter how you fail.

~Elyse Fitzpatrick

In your pursuit of godliness, have you left Jesus behind?

~Elyse Fitzpatrick

The gospel frees us from demanding our own way, because nothing we desire to obtain is worth sinning against such love and kindness.

~Elyse Fitzpatrick

The law was given to crush our self-confidence and drive us to Jesus.

~Elyse Fitzpatrick

Our obedience has its origin in God's prior action, and forgetting that truth results in self-righteousness, pride, and despair.
