

Enid Blyton Quotes

Children, Book, Beautiful, People, Strong, Writing, Mother, Night, Roof, Lakes, Lying, Funny, Kind, Play, Trying, Acting, Swimming, Dog, Use, Giving

The best way to treat obstacles is to use them as stepping-stones. Laugh at them, tread on them, and let them lead you to something better.

~Enid Blyton

Leave something for someone but dont leave someone for something.

~Enid Blyton

You're trying to escape from your difficulties, and there never is any escape from difficulties, never. They have to be faced and fought.

~Enid Blyton

If you can't look after something in your care, you have no right to keep it.

~Enid Blyton

Hatred is so much easier to win than love - and so much harder to get rid of.

~Enid Blyton

I think people make their own faces, as they grow.

~Enid Blyton

It wasn't a bit of good fighting grown-ups. They could do exactly as they liked.

~Enid Blyton

I'm good at exploring roofs. You never know when that kind of thing comes in useful.

~Enid Blyton

Here Mr Potts come here you little idiot!

~Enid Blyton

We must have Christian ethics for our children, good and strong, but we must make them attractive, too, and it can be done.

~Enid Blyton

I have written, probably, more books for children than any other writer, from story-books to plays, and can claim to know more about interesting children than most.

~Enid Blyton

My work in books, films and talks lies almost wholly with children, and I have very little time to give to grown-ups.

~Enid Blyton

When you're paid to do a job, it's better to give a few minutes more to it, than a few minutes less. That's one of the differences between doing a job honestly and doing it dishonestly! See?

~Enid Blyton

I get over a hundred letters a day from all over the world, from children and parents, and it's a wonder I ever have time to write books, let alone speak!

~Enid Blyton

I am not really much interested in talking to adults, although I suppose practically every mother in the kingdom knows my name and my books. It's their children I love.

~Enid Blyton

The point is not that I don't recognise bad people when I see them – I grant you I may quite well be taken in by them – the point is that I know a good person when I see one.

~Enid Blyton

A clown needn't be the same out of the ring as he has to be when he's in it. If you look at photographs of clowns when they're just being ordinary men, they've got quite sad faces.

~Enid Blyton

Writing for children is an art in itself, and a most interesting one.

~Enid Blyton

Related Links:

- Children Quotes
- Book Quotes
- Beautiful Quotes
- People Quotes
- Strong Quotes
- Writing Quotes
- Mother Quotes
- Night Quotes
- Roof Quotes
- Lakes Quotes
- Lying Quotes
- Funny Quotes
- Kind Quotes
- Play Quotes
- Trying Quotes
- Acting Quotes
- Swimming Quotes
- Dog Quotes
- Use Quotes
- Giving Quotes