I'm a lurker and a creep. Women don't like me because I sleep standing up, like a horse.

~Eric Andre

I'm an elderly Jewish lesbian trapped in a 33 year old nerd's body.

~Eric Andre

I'm insecure, and I need the validation of strangers to feel whole. So, I need every single racist 12-year-old on the Internet to like me, or I don't feel complete.

~Eric Andre

A hole is a hole has always been my motto.

~Eric Andre

I think everyone is bi, right? There's no such thing as sexual orientation, or race, or gender. Those are all obsolete man-made concepts.

~Eric Andre

I will smoke crack before I die. I want to see what all the hubbub is about.

~Eric Andre

I can't tell if the world is worse now or if we just have more cameras. There are cameras everywhere, so now the world knows how bad the world is.

~Eric Andre

I think we give human beings too much credit. We're primates, you know.

~Eric Andre

The president is the country's scapegoat more than the country's leader; the president has as much power as we think the president has.

Whoever has the most money is the puppet master.

~Eric Andre

Do you think we're going to hit a tipping point and the world's going to end?

~Eric Andre

I'm an Aries. I need everybody to like me.

~Eric Andre

Before The Simpsons, I was 4 years old, so I don't know exactly what I was thinking before that.

~Eric Andre

When I'm watching South Park I don't think it's written by neo-Nazis. They know exactly what they're doing.

~Eric Andre

I feel like we put all the weight on the president, rather than distributing the weight to all of the elected officials.

~Eric Andre

Wonder Showzen is one of my favorite shows of all time. When I first saw it, I thought it was so funny and new and original and edgy and insane and subversive. I didn't know comedy could do that.

~Eric Andre

You can't really feel the direct change from one president to another versus people closer to you in local elections.

~Eric Andre

Wonder Showzen was one of the first shows that realized each sketch, each segment is essentially one joke, and, once you know what the joke is, it's time to move on.

~Eric Andre

You see a lot of sketch variety shows where each segment is one joke that they repeat over and over and over again, and the sketches are always three or four minutes too long.

~Eric Andre

You can make fun of your own a lot easier than someone else's.

~Eric Andre

Its consistency of what comedy can do and what comedy can be. Growing up with that show [The Simpsons] shaped my worldview.

~Eric Andre

How many n-bombs are dropped? It depends on what I post.

~Eric Andre

I care a lot; I'm very sensitive.

~Eric Andre

If the crowd is full of assholes, it's no fun. If the crowd is cool, it's great.

~Eric Andre

Comedy is often about pain.

~Eric Andre

I think that we put too much weight on who the president is.

~Eric Andre

They [The Simpsons] are just like the Bible to me as far as what the high-water mark of comedy.

~Eric Andre

If there's an intelligence behind the joke - - it's a good joke.

~Eric Andre

I do think homophobia in the '80s was more rampant and socially acceptable.

~Eric Andre

I think if the joke is in good taste - it's a good joke.

~Eric Andre

I don't think comedians take advantage of the fact that television and film are visual mediums.

~Eric Andre

There's two sides to the coin. I think I'm much happier that [Barack] Obama won over John McCain or Mitt Romney, because I think Obama did something culturally for the country.

~Eric Andre

[The people that worked on The Simpsons] just had good taste. They knew how to execute absurd jokes.

~Eric Andre

I have done some formal acting training, because I sucked at acting when I first got to Los Angeles. I'm still one of the worst actors and auditions out there.

~Eric Andre

The Simpsons was pretty experimental at the time, but it attracted a lot of sitcom writers that felt confined by the limitations of live-action sitcoms in the '80s.

~Eric Andre

I'm not a very good actor, so I break character all the time.

~Eric Andre

Let's hit the joke once and move on to the next joke and just keep it where we have as many jokes per square inch as possible.
