How long time is when one is sad! Is it three years or three days since you went away?

~Eugenie de Guerin

The effect of every burden laid down is to leave us relieved; and when the soul has laid down that of its faults at the feet of God, it feels as though it had wings.

~Eugenie de Guerin

The errors of the intellect are fatal, still more dangerous than those of the heart.

~Eugenie de Guerin

Certainly, friends are sufficiently rare not to be neglected; they are life's best comforters.

~Eugenie de Guerin

Kings may see their palaces fall, but the ants will always have their dwellings.

~Eugenie de Guerin

One has so much time for thought in the country! However occupied one may be, 'tis with nothing that engrosses the mind, which works away on its own account like a mill-wheel.

~Eugenie de Guerin

One fancies that what one loves cannot die.

~Eugenie de Guerin

in God alone is love without tears, and of eternal duration.

~Eugenie de Guerin

Solitude causes us to write because it causes us to think.

~Eugenie de Guerin

Witticisms are fire-arms, that make a noise and give pain.

~Eugenie de Guerin

Fear is the beginning of wisdom.

~Eugenie de Guerin

We all owe each other concessions of taste and opinion for the sake of family peace and affection.

~Eugenie de Guerin

My God, how badly one calculates in this world! ... Let us leave off calculating on anything but death -- it is the only certainty.
