Everyone wants to work in America. Maybe not blockbusters or Terminator, but to have the choice.

~Eva Green

I want to travel. Maybe I'll end up living in Norway, making cakes.

~Eva Green

I like characters who have strong facades and then have secrets. They have cracks.

~Eva Green

I am a dreamer. Seriously, I'm living on another planet.

~Eva Green

I have my own style and don't really follow fashion, but I like leggings. They're easy to wear and can go with anything.

~Eva Green

Don't be ashamed of who you are, embrace who you are.

~Eva Green

I need to fall in love with someone. Sorry - I mean fall in love with something. I need to wake myself up.

~Eva Green

I'm not really involved with politics... I'm living in my cocoon with my classical music around.

~Eva Green

I don't believe in awards. It's very good for the ego, I suppose.

~Eva Green

Hmm, limelight... No, I'm not Sienna Miller or Angelina Jolie. I'm very lucky and happy, but I still find it very difficult to get good scripts and good roles. It's really a jungle out there.

~Eva Green

I have Algerian, Turkish, Swedish, Spanish blood: I feel like a citizen of the world. Life and cinema don't have borders.

~Eva Green

Most of the women in film are there to be beautiful to the man.

~Eva Green

When people say 'You're so beautiful' it makes me want to kill myself! As an actress you want to be seen for what you do, for the characters you can play, otherwise I'd be a model

~Eva Green

It's boring to be like everybody.

~Eva Green

We all show facets, to your mother, or to your boyfriend, or a friend. You're always a bit different.

~Eva Green

If you're weird, it's good to be weird.

~Eva Green

Success is very ephemeral. You depend entirely on the desire of others, which makes it difficult to relax.

~Eva Green

I was very studious, too much. I would never go out at weekends. I was very serious. You should have seen me in class - I was blushing and sweating every time the teacher asked me something.

~Eva Green

I love fashion from the 1930s and '40s - shoulder pads, high waists, things with structure. That is classy for me. Andrea Riseborough from the Madonna movie 'W.E.' had an amazing wardrobe.

~Eva Green

I feel sick if I have to do something for the money. I can't breathe. I'm not proud of myself.

~Eva Green

In Los Angeles, I feel like the ugly duckling, like I'm from Venus or something.

~Eva Green

I'm not into social media. I'm like from another century.

~Eva Green

I'm not really keen on men wearing perfumes. It's just a bit wrong! I don't find it sexy. I prefer essential oils - patchouli is nice.

~Eva Green

For Tim Burton's birthday I gave him a rainbow beetle. He loved it!

~Eva Green

I've always felt like I'm from another planet.

~Eva Green

People think I'm so strong, but I'm very shy.

~Eva Green

I didn't know about the Bond girl thing. I was approached very quickly, boom, boom, boom, it happened.

~Eva Green

I'm very scared of water. When you don't see the water... I imagine monsters - stupid things.

~Eva Green

I would love to play an unexpected character. Really raw and simple and not a cliché - something rugged. People like to put actors in boxes.

~Eva Green

The worst is when men try too hard, because it's not very masculine. Your outfit has to look like 'Oh, I just grabbed that.' Not too calculated. Jeans, a t-shirt: the simpler the better.

~Eva Green

Life's too short to wear high heels.

~Eva Green

It's quite hard to find a ballsy or complex character. So the roles I've taken are those. Lots of people put me in the dark category.

~Eva Green

I love Ireland. I feel very at peace there. It's just magical and beautiful.

~Eva Green

To help people in the third world get educated and learn how to read and write is so important. I mean it is such an important human right.

~Eva Green

Lots of shy people dress a bit too much. It's just kind of an armour. People say the same thing about me.

~Eva Green

I feel like I'm 1,000. I don't feel I'm young enough a lot of the time.

~Eva Green

All my jewelry has stories.

~Eva Green

For me, acting is like a therapy. I can express myself fully when I am acting and have blood in my veins. Even when I'm not working, I'm always living in my own world, imagining characters.

~Eva Green

I don't watch anything I'm in. Not even on set. I won't go over to the monitor to watch what we've just shot. It's too terrible. I think I'm just very self-conscious.

~Eva Green

My father has always written with Mont Blanc pens. It's very chic and elegant and classic.

~Eva Green

In a Tim Burton movie, you know it's going to be something unusual, or a bit mad. Something "other."

~Eva Green

For me, working out is nothing to do with looks. It's to let it all out - the stress, the self-consciousness - you think less; it makes you more centred.

~Eva Green

When I'm not working I just like to be comfortable: I love black, nothing tight, no heels, no make-up - it's nice to be able to breathe!

~Eva Green

At drama school, I always picked the really evil roles. It's a great way to deal with your everyday emotions.

~Eva Green

There are ways of doing stunts without me. I get no pleasure putting my life in jeopardy just to get the shot. Life is too short for that nonsense.

~Eva Green

I've never been very good talking about myself.

~Eva Green

There's this shop in New York I go to; it has bones and fossils and insects that are like works of art. I have a few on my wall.

~Eva Green

I'll need my whole lifetime to polish my craft.

~Eva Green

I'm worried because of my mother, she's going to see my performance and she's quite hard. She's going to see me naked. And my Dad, woah. Yeah, they're going to see me like a woman, you know?

~Eva Green

When I'm at an event, I like to be an eccentric dresser. I will just keep wearing what I like.

~Eva Green

My father is Swedish and my mother is French.

~Eva Green

I've always felt a bit weird, very shy.

~Eva Green

That is really the freedom that allows you to create something that is exciting because who knows what's true?

~Eva Green

If I can avoid doing stunts, I will. I don't want to die just for a movie. It's not worth it.

~Eva Green

Traditional British desserts with lots of custard are my biggest weakness - I particularly love the puds at St. John restaurant in East London.

~Eva Green

I also liked Daniel Craig. He's not like any other Bond. So we'll see. In 10 years I might be cursed for doing it, but I'm very grateful for what it has done for me.

~Eva Green

A lot of the films now are more focused on the visuals than on the actors. I think all directors should go to drama school.

~Eva Green

I didn't want to do 'Casino Royale' when they told me to audition. I said no. Then they sent me the script, and I thought it was actually very interesting - and I had no other work at the time.

~Eva Green

I'm a dark blonde, yes. I dyed my hair blue, then black, when I was 14. I thought the colour was more flattering and matched my skin tone. I don't think I'd ever change back unless it was for a film.

~Eva Green

I'm French, so I'm quite lazy about exercising, and I smoke. But I do love going for a run in the morning with my dog. That's all.

~Eva Green

It's true that I'm drawn to unusual stories. Normal roles don't really attract me.

~Eva Green

I don't want to be a Hollywood star. I just want to do my job and enjoy it. My aim is to find my true identity and to remain true to myself.

~Eva Green

My mother did movies from the New Wave, but I was quite shocked I didn't know much about that period. Bernado showed us film of the demonstrations of the time.

~Eva Green

I hardly ever go to parties. If I really have to, I'll go, but I'm not the most open person, which is sometimes not the best quality.

~Eva Green

Actually, when I'm not filming a movie, my beauty approach is really natural - I prefer a bare face that looks really healthy and dewy.

~Eva Green

Some people collect butterflies - I love beetles.

~Eva Green

At the end of the day, I choose something that makes my heart beat, that I can relate to, that's very complex, or human.

~Eva Green

I was born in Paris, and it's a beautiful place, but London feels like home. I like the village feeling, I like running in the parks - even the food isn't as bad as it used to be.

~Eva Green

England understands good Chinese, Japanese and Indian cuisine; in France, we just get French.

~Eva Green

I've never played a character that is just beautiful, but sometimes you can read scripts that sound so shallow, like women are objects. I've never done something like that, though.

~Eva Green

I play the piano. I bought an upright piano that is actually electric, so I can practice my scales with headphones on and not make my neighbours' lives hell!

~Eva Green

I like style. For Dior, I did more of a collaboration shoot, not just a single image - so there was more to it. It's a very prestigious brand. I like their style and feel like their style is mine.

~Eva Green

I wear no makeup in real life. I'm very simple. That may be why I go over the top for the red carpet. But otherwise, I'm very plain. I should make more of an effort, actually.

~Eva Green

My mother is an actress and very well known in France; hence, I move to London to start my own life.

~Eva Green

There are not many good roles for women.

~Eva Green

Oh, yeah, I like a high neck. And I like naked backs. It seems very sexy. Red carpets are about being a bit theatrical - having fun rather than being too safe. You have to be brave. Fashion is fun.

~Eva Green

I'm very low-maintenance when it comes to my beauty routine.

~Eva Green

Hollywood wouldn't suit me. In L.A. it's all about work - studio people have their five minutes with you and they go, 'Oh mah Gahd, I love your movie.' You just feel very self-conscious there.

~Eva Green

French sounds flat. In English, you can play with pitch.

~Eva Green

In this business actors who have Botox or surgery make you very aware of age. It's awful.

~Eva Green

I go shopping maybe three times a year in an intense way. I'm like a man. Can't spend too much time in a shop.
