Memory shrinks until it fits in a fist memory shrinks without forgetting

~Fady Joudah

I don't think art is in danger of dissolution or disappearance, and we don't trust enough in its ability and power to create critical consciousness as much as we think we do.

~Fady Joudah

As for the heart It needs a beginning The narrative Burden of events

~Fady Joudah

For me, poetry is a form of activism. And that word enables the labelers, and also gives them a rash.

~Fady Joudah

Even the art of quoting is a conservative art most of the time, in order to propel the same ideas and the same self-congratulatory importance.

~Fady Joudah
