Just because you have star power and a huge marketing budget, you can see from some professional web series, it doesn't equal views.

~Felicia Day

I think the whole definition of a geek is somebody being passionate and focused, and being proud of saying that they're passionate and focused, on a narrow range of subjects.

~Felicia Day

You don't need millions of dollars or millions of people if you're doing what you love.

~Felicia Day

Each one of us is finite, and if we can spread ourselves out in a way to inspire and help other people to be all they can be, I think that's so much more important than one person's glory.

~Felicia Day

I was a child of a tech family. My grandfather was a nuclear physicist and was always a gadget guy.

~Felicia Day

Basically, my socialization as a child didn't come from any schooling; it came from being in theater and meeting people online.

~Felicia Day

The substance of what it means to be a geek is essentially someone who's brave enough to love something against judgment. The heart of being a geek is a little bit of rejection.

~Felicia Day

I love sitcoms, and I grew up on sitcoms. That's my tasty junk food.

~Felicia Day

I still do commercial work as an actor, which I love, because it's very quick, and it definitely pays my bills.

~Felicia Day

I believe you are never past the point of creating opportunities for yourself.

~Felicia Day

I created 'The Guild' because nobody was offering me the roles I thought I could do best at in Hollywood.

~Felicia Day

I learned that lack of budget can be overcome by fan passion if you can get your content to the people who like what you do.

~Felicia Day

I think Hollywood has seen what fandom can do for a project. You can definitely see that when you go to Comic-con.

~Felicia Day

Surprisingly, I think if you're known on the Internet, you're probably an introvert.

~Felicia Day

Geek and Sundry has an eclectic line-up of shows all targeted around things I love: Comics, Tabletop Games, Books and more.

~Felicia Day

I'm a big champion of people doing things outside the system.

~Felicia Day

Social media is an amazing tool, but it's really the face-to-face interaction that makes a long-term impact.

~Felicia Day

TV and comics and movies are what you think about when you think about geek, but people can be a geek about anything.

~Felicia Day

I'm not a very vengeful person. I like to accept people; I tend to see the good in everybody, so I'm kind of stupid like that.

~Felicia Day

My favorite 'Mister Rogers' episodes were always the ones where Mr. Rogers would go into the community.

~Felicia Day

I would never let somebody say that they're me. That would be the ultimate betrayal of what I stand for.

~Felicia Day

Hollywood typecast me as the secretary. I could have worked as the quirky secretary for the rest of my life, but I decided not to do that.

~Felicia Day

My goal in creating Geek & Sundry was to create a community based around web video, and we've accomplished that, especially on our budget.

~Felicia Day

That's the great thing about incubating something on the web: you have the potential to go to other platforms. Every single platform has a different audience that you find.

~Felicia Day

I'm definitely more of a 'think game' kind of girl. I'll read every single dialogue and codex entry and lore entry. I really do love projecting myself and creating my character.

~Felicia Day

Finishing games has been something I'm really proud of, seeing something through to the end.

~Felicia Day

For the vlogging channel, I wanted to build the infrastructure and build up all the personalities in a way that felt like weren't just forcing the audience to watch everyone we have.

~Felicia Day

When I carve out time to game, it's because I rationalize that I 'deserve it,' so I relish every minute of that 2-3 hour session.

~Felicia Day

My goal with every show we put on Geek & Sundry is to make it that big of a success, not just within the video but within fandom itself.

~Felicia Day

I'd been on 'Buffy' - that is an amazing community, the Joss Whedon fans.

~Felicia Day

I think every role is always exciting and intimidating. I've never had a role where I wasn't intimidated by it.

~Felicia Day

I have a little obsessive-compulsive personality. You can tell because I played online games for eight hours a day.

~Felicia Day

I could go off into the wilderness and write fantasy novels for the rest of my life and probably be happy; but I always want to challenge myself.

~Felicia Day

I always enjoyed acting. My aunt was actually an actress.

~Felicia Day

I do not sleep, but it's totally fine, because I love what I do.

~Felicia Day

I don't need millions of dollars. I need to know that what I'm doing with my life is expressing who I am, and maybe making people happy. This is all we get.

~Felicia Day

In life they're not going to serve you lemons, they're going to serve you lemonade; and I don't really like lemonade because I've got a really bad acid reflux.

~Felicia Day

I'm super excited about gaming always. That's the thing that I geek out over; those are the vlogs that I'm surfing if I'm not already playing a game at night.

~Felicia Day

'TableTop' is packed with gaming celebrities and independent game creators. This is a huge subculture that really doesn't have a vehicle to rally around or educate people with.

~Felicia Day

Comic-Con has become more of a pop cultural festival, and to not be included feels like you're missing the biggest celebration of the year.

~Felicia Day

I think it's really good to create pockets and events throughout the year that highlight certain things that are really popular on YouTube.

~Felicia Day

You never know how people are gonna receive you and especially a character that's so close to the fans in type...

~Felicia Day

'The Last Of Us,' to me, is just amazing storytelling, because everything's from the character point of view, which even movies don't really do successfully a lot of the time.

~Felicia Day

I'm much more interested in shows that maybe not everybody loves, but a lot of people REALLY love. That's how I am as a person. I'm as extreme as the roles in the shows that I like to be on.

~Felicia Day

It's good to let the other worries have a vacation and have different worries take over and then go back to the old worries.

~Felicia Day

I am excited for the future of the industry, because we're at that point now where digital is becoming pertinent to release and distribution strategy versus releasing on cable or anywhere else.

~Felicia Day

Obviously geek culture is super influential, the web kind of started from a very geeky point of view because geeks are all about technology.

~Felicia Day

The support of my fans is something I treasure more than anything, and I wouldn't be here today without their support, their involvement in my shows.

~Felicia Day

I tend to have more anxious dreams where I'm late getting to places. That's definitely a recurring dream; I hate being late to places.

~Felicia Day

The spirit is the thing I most love about my kind of geekdom.

~Felicia Day

Every single job is a challenge. You are walking into a new set, a new character, creating a world and trying to get comfortable to do your best work.

~Felicia Day

It's so much easier to measure life in experience points.

~Felicia Day

If you know your characters well enough, you aren't trying to grasp for storylines. You're really thinking about their flaws and their passions and what they're chasing.
