It is not to be expected that human nature will change in a day.

~Frank B. Kellogg

France and Italy have not yet signed this treaty or agreed to naval limitation as between those nations, but I have confidence that in time they will do so.

~Frank B. Kellogg

Warned by the disaster of the last great war, the statesmen of all nations have been taking measures to prevent the return of another such calamity.

~Frank B. Kellogg

Adequate defense has been the catchword of every militarist for centuries.

~Frank B. Kellogg

There are but few naval powers, but there are many land powers.

~Frank B. Kellogg

Competition in armament, both land and naval, is not only a terrible burden upon the people, but I believe it to be one of the greatest menaces to the peace of the world.

~Frank B. Kellogg

There is no short and easy road, no magic cure for those ills which have afflicted mankind from the dawn of history.

~Frank B. Kellogg

It is true not all has been accomplished that the earnest advocates would desire, but a start has been made.

~Frank B. Kellogg

I know of no more important subject to the peace of Europe and the world than the reasonable reduction of armaments, especially in Europe, and of naval armaments throughout the world.

~Frank B. Kellogg

The fact that so many of your people are today residents and citizens of the United States, lending their influence to our civic and economic life, which has meant so much to our development.

~Frank B. Kellogg

There has not been a war in South America for fifty years, and I have every confidence that the countries of Central and South America are deeply in earnest in the maintenance of peace.

~Frank B. Kellogg

I have often heard it said that the United States is isolated and is not interested in European affairs. I assure you that this is not the case.

~Frank B. Kellogg

If we will maintain our hope and confidence in the genius of our people, they will work out this problem, and their ability and industry will bring us back to normal conditions.

~Frank B. Kellogg

Public opinion shapes our destinies and guides the progress of human affairs.

~Frank B. Kellogg

I do not hesitate to say that the limitation on naval craft between the great naval powers was too high.

~Frank B. Kellogg

I share the opinion of those of broader vision, who see in the signs of the time hope of humanity for peace.

~Frank B. Kellogg

I know of no greater work for humanity than in the cause of peace, which can only be achieved by the earnest efforts of nations and peoples.

~Frank B. Kellogg

I regret very much to hear so many people, many of my own countrymen, predicting war, stating that Europe is preparing and arming for such a conflict.

~Frank B. Kellogg

It is by such means as the prize offered by your Committee that the attention of the world will be focused and that men and women will be inspired to greater efforts in the interest of peace.

~Frank B. Kellogg

I further value this gift as it gave me an opportunity to accept this distinguished honor in a country so devoted to this cause and whose history marks a wonderful chapter in world development.
