I was working a corporate job for years and it always felt restrictive, it felt like I was doing something I wasn't supposed to be doing.

~Fred Foster

I believe that if you work hard enough and do things the right way recognition will come.

~Fred Foster

I wanted to give people an experience. I wanted them to get their money's worth.

~Fred Foster

I wasn't able to afford high-end brands or any of that, so I grew up on streetwear.

~Fred Foster

I want to represent the street, not in a negative sense, but in the sense that when I was growing up, that's what I grew up on.

~Fred Foster

The thing is you can be a great designer but you can also be lazy or not understand the other person's preferences or be more concerned about being a star than being good at what you do.

~Fred Foster

I want to be recognized but I don't seek it out.

~Fred Foster

Somebody once told me if you're doing what you're supposed to you don't have to force it.

~Fred Foster

I started out doing everything on a custom scale and when that started paying the bills I started making more pieces.

~Fred Foster

Starting out is very difficult if you don't have a clientele.

~Fred Foster

I'm based in Atlanta so there weren't a lot of people to talk to about fashion because no one was really doing it on the scale that I wanted to do it. I had to do a lot of research on my own.

~Fred Foster

I didn't go to school for fashion, I didn't have anybody to teach me anything about fashion - that's all I knew how to do, graphic design.

~Fred Foster

Even when I was just designing T-shirts people really gravitated to them.

~Fred Foster

Even though I wasn't making a lot of money I was enjoying what I was doing.

~Fred Foster

I was at work but my soul wasn't there, my body was there but I wasn't connecting to what I was doing. Eventually I decided to get out of there and do something I believe in.
