Christian, Self, Men, Strong, Heaven, Jesus, Song, Winning, Kindness, Kind, Blessed, Long, Littles, Music, World, Mind, Thinking, Holiness, Grief, Faith

Kindness has converted more sinners than either zeal, eloquence, or learning; and these three last have never converted any.

~Frederick William Faber

The great fact is, that life is a service. The only question is, "Whom will we serve?"

~Frederick William Faber

Every moment of resistance to temptation is a victory.

~Frederick William Faber

There is a grace of kind listening, as well as a grace of kind speaking.

~Frederick William Faber

There are no disappointments to those whose wills are buried in the will of God.

~Frederick William Faber

Remember that if the opportunities for great deeds should never come, the opportunities for good deeds are renewed day by day. The thing for us to long for is the goodness, not the glory.

~Frederick William Faber

Kind words are the music of the world. They have a power which seems to be beyond natural causes, as if they were some angel's song which had lost its way and come to earth.

~Frederick William Faber

Many a friendship - long, loyal, and self-sacrificing - rested at first upon no thicker a foundation than a kind word.

~Frederick William Faber

Deep theology is the best fuel of devotion; it readily catches fire, and once kindled it burns long.

~Frederick William Faber

Holiness is an unselfing of ourselves.

~Frederick William Faber

Kind words are the music of the world.

~Frederick William Faber

Each hour comes with some little faggot of God's will fastened upon its back.

~Frederick William Faber

For right is right, since God is God and right the day must win. To doubt would be disloyalty, to falter would be sin.

~Frederick William Faber

For right is right, since God is God.

~Frederick William Faber

We must have passed through life unobservantly, if we have never perceived that a man is very much himself what he thinks of others.

~Frederick William Faber

Exactness in little things is a wonderful source of cheerfulness.

~Frederick William Faber

We strain hardest for things which are almost but not quite within our reach.

~Frederick William Faber

If our love were but more simple, We should take Him at His word; And our lives would be all sunshine In the sweetness of the Lord.

~Frederick William Faber

The buried talent is the sunken rock on which most lives strike and founder.

~Frederick William Faber

Small things are best: Grief and unrest
To rank and wealth are given;
But little things On little wings
Bear little souls to Heaven.

~Frederick William Faber

Labour itself is but a sorrowful song,
The protest of the weak against the strong.

~Frederick William Faber

O majesty unspeakable and dread!
Wert thou less mighty than Thou art,
Thou wert, O Lord, too great for our belief,
Too little for our heart.

~Frederick William Faber

Eternity will not be long enough to learn all he is, or to praise him for all he has done, but then, that matters not; for we shall be always with him, and we desire nothing more.

~Frederick William Faber

They always win who side with God.

~Frederick William Faber

Love's secret is always to be doing things for God, and not to mind because they are such very little ones.

~Frederick William Faber

Ye Heavens, how sang they in your courts, How sang the angelic choir that day,
When from his tomb the imprisoned God, Like the strong sunrise, broke away?

~Frederick William Faber

He (God) never comes to those who do not wait.

~Frederick William Faber

We cannot resist the conviction that this world is for us only the porch of another and more magnificent temple of the Creator's majesty.

~Frederick William Faber

Happiness is a great power of holiness. Thus, kind words, by their power of producing happiness, have also a power of producing holiness, and so of winning men to God.

~Frederick William Faber

Kind words produce happiness. How often have we ourselves been made happy by kind words, in a manner and to an extent which we are unable to explain!

~Frederick William Faber

Good is that darkening of our lives, Which only God can brighten; But better still that hopeless load, Which none but God can lighten.

~Frederick William Faber

God always fills in all hearts all the room which is left Him there.

~Frederick William Faber

For children is there any happiness which is not also noise?

~Frederick William Faber

There is a great deal of self-will in the world, but very little genuine independence of character.

~Frederick William Faber

The music of the Gospel leads us home.

~Frederick William Faber

The world is growing old; Who would not be at rest and free Where love

is never cold?

~Frederick William Faber

There's a wideness in God's mercy Like the wideness of the sea
Oratory Hymns.

~Frederick William Faber

Nobody is kind to only one person at once, but to many persons in one.
