Worker ownership is only one form of democratizing ownership.

~Gar Alperovitz

The top 400 people own more wealth now than the bottom 185 million Americans taken together. That is a medieval structure.

~Gar Alperovitz

If you don't have a way to speak to ordinary Americans, you're not in the game.

~Gar Alperovitz

The reality of the world we live in is that people sometimes aren't interested in many circumstances; no matter how much young radicals yell at them, that isn't what they want to do right now.

~Gar Alperovitz

Parecon is a very tough-minded economic vision and model, and it sets a standard for us to look at.

~Gar Alperovitz

Finding ways to organize work in which people are not locked into unequal power relationships is very important. Having said that, it's not easily done, and it's complicated.
