Music's staying power is a function of how timeless the lyrics, song and production are.

~Gary Wright

The Internet is both great and terrible. As a source of information, a tool for delivering music and art, it's great. But spamming ads and piracy of music is terrible. It's stealing.

~Gary Wright

I'm developing artists for my new record label, my son's band, Intangible, being one of them.

~Gary Wright

Fly me high through the starry skies or maybe to an astral plane, cross the highways of fantasy, help me to forget today's pain.

~Gary Wright

We lived on a farm in the English countryside, where we wrote a lot of our music. You really were treated like an artist during those days-not like product, which is now the mode.

~Gary Wright

In 1972, George Harrison invited me to accompany him on a trip to India.

~Gary Wright

I will be developing artists for my new label. The rest is in God's Hands.

~Gary Wright

No one likes to work for free. To copy an artist's work and download it free is stealing. It's hard work writing and recording music, and it's morally wrong to steal it.

~Gary Wright

I didnt develop or build synths. I had my technicians modify them for my live stage performances.

~Gary Wright

Not everybody has things that become classics.

~Gary Wright

I always wanted to do something completely different.

~Gary Wright

I like Anastacia's version of Love is Alive best.

~Gary Wright

I really don't make music to have platinum records and all that kind of stuff. I've been there. I do it because I love music and I love uplifting people through my music. That's my real goal.

~Gary Wright

My music and lyrics became an extension of this Indian philosophy.

~Gary Wright

India profoundly changed my outlook on life because you see how people can be content and very happy with little or even no possessions. It's the reverse of the West.

~Gary Wright

I'm doing music that I like and that I hope other people will like too.

~Gary Wright

Every artist usually has one or two songs that really define their careers.

~Gary Wright

Artists were nurtured back in the '70s. Their music was developed by the record companies.

~Gary Wright

As far as a defining moment, that was a hugely successful and very busy time for me. 1975, 1976, 1977 - that whole time frame.

~Gary Wright

The more far-out artists, the better.

~Gary Wright

My career has kind of taken on a life of its own.

~Gary Wright

When you have a lot of hits and your career starts to go down, but then your music starts to slowly go up again.

~Gary Wright

My goal is really to continue to make music.
