She's singing to-night to bring the chandelier down!

~Gaston Leroux

If I am the phantom, it is because man's hatred has made me so. If I am to be saved it is because your love redeems me.

~Gaston Leroux

Erik is not truly dead. He lives on within the souls of those who choose to listen to the music of the night.

~Gaston Leroux

Everybody knows that orthopaedic science provides beautiful false noses for those who have lost their noses naturally or as the result of an operation.

~Gaston Leroux

You are crying! You are afraid of me! And yet I am not really wicked. Love me and you shall see! All I wanted was to be loved for myself.

~Gaston Leroux

You must know that I am made of death, from head to foot, and it is a corpse who loves you and adores you and will never, never leave you!

~Gaston Leroux

There are times where excessive innocence seems so monstrous that it becomes hateful.

~Gaston Leroux

An author really ought to have nothing but flowers in the room where he works.

~Gaston Leroux

Everyone dies. I just choose the time and place for some of them!

~Gaston Leroux

Erik: Are you very tired? Christine: Oh, tonight I gave you my soul, and I am dead. Erik: Your soul is a beautiful thing, child. No emperor received so fair a gift. The angels wept to-night.

~Gaston Leroux

Why, you love him! Your fear, your terror, all of that is just love and love of the most exquisite kind, the kind which people do not admit even to themselves.

~Gaston Leroux

None will ever be a true Parisian who has not learned to wear a mask of gaiety over his sorrows and one of sadness, boredom, or indifference over his inward joy.

~Gaston Leroux

All I wanted was to be loved for myself." (Erik)

~Gaston Leroux

In Paris, our lives are one masked ball.

~Gaston Leroux

But do you love me? If Erik were good-looking, would you love me, Christine?

~Gaston Leroux

When a woman has seen me, as you have, she belongs to me. She loves me forever.

~Gaston Leroux

A ghost who, on the same evening, carries off an opera-singer and steals twenty-thousand francs is a ghost who must have his hands very full!

~Gaston Leroux
