The whole point of design is to make people feel better about themselves.

~Geoffrey Beene

I tell women not to believe everything they read about fashion.

~Geoffrey Beene

Fashion is in a terrible state. An overdose of too much flesh.

~Geoffrey Beene

Designs are a revelation to me. It's like taking something that is not alive and giving it form, shape, substance, and life.

~Geoffrey Beene

The greatest concubines in history knew that everything revealed with nothing concealed is a bore.

~Geoffrey Beene

When I don't have any ideas, I pick up fabric and start working with it and something happens.

~Geoffrey Beene

Clothes should look as if a woman was born into them. It is a form of possession, this belonging to one another.

~Geoffrey Beene

Design is an unknown.

~Geoffrey Beene

Fashion is treated too much as news rather than what it is, what it does and how it performs.

~Geoffrey Beene

A woman should be less concerned about Paris and more concerned about whether the dress she's about to buy relates to the way she lives.

~Geoffrey Beene

I come in. I'm going to sketch, I'm going to drape, I don't know what I'm going to do.

~Geoffrey Beene

The influence of Paris, for instance, is now minimal. Yet a lot is written about Paris fashion.

~Geoffrey Beene

The unimaginable always becomes the unforgettable.

~Geoffrey Beene

I hate clothes that look saleable. I love when they look desirable.

~Geoffrey Beene

Clothes should be as interesting on the inside as on the outside. Even if you enjoy it totally alone, it's important.

~Geoffrey Beene

I gave up medicine. So I'll give up fashion. . . I could be a colorist of spaceships.

~Geoffrey Beene
