The foaminess of the Falls, together with the tinge of tawny yellow in the troubled waters, only reminded me of so much unattainable soda and sherry, and made me feel thirstier than ever.

~George Augustus Henry Sala

God has ordered, that men, being in need of each other, should learn to love each other, and to bear each other's burdens.

~George Augustus Henry Sala

A woman's character is as delicate as her eye; it can bear no flaw.

~George Augustus Henry Sala

You cannot fathom your mind.... The more you draw from it, the more clear and fruitful it will be.

~George Augustus Henry Sala

Make Hamilton Bamilton, make Douglas Puglas, make Percy Bercy, and Stanley Tanley and where would be the long-resounding march and energy divine of the roll-call of the peerage?

~George Augustus Henry Sala

There is great truth in Alphonse Karr's remark that modern men are ugly because they do not wear their beards.

~George Augustus Henry Sala

Society is the master, and man is the servant.

~George Augustus Henry Sala

England is surrounded by enemies - by real enemies who hate her. Why? Because she tries to be honest; and she tries to be free.

~George Augustus Henry Sala

Happily there exists more than one kind of beauty. There is the beauty of infancy, the beauty of youth, the beauty of maturity, and, believe me, ladies and gentlemen, the beauty of age.

~George Augustus Henry Sala

It is an error to suppose that a man belongs to himself. No man does. He belongs to his wife, or his children, or his relations, or to his creditors, or to society in some form or other.

~George Augustus Henry Sala

Almost everything that I behold in this wonderful country bears traces of improvement and reform - everything except Pie.
