But the cure for most obstacles is, Be decisive.

~George Weinberg

We're all here at the same time and we should celebrate that.

~George Weinberg

What worse illness can there be than acute conventionality. You should pray every night that you don't wake up with it.

~George Weinberg

Homophobia is just that: a phobia.

~George Weinberg

All love is original, no matter how many other people have loved before.

~George Weinberg

My father was a pedant and a bully who cared about nobody, and I was not to see him until I was eighteen.

~George Weinberg

We have many cases of men committing suicide rather than face their own individuality. I know of no case of a woman who committed suicide because she was gay.

~George Weinberg

Finally, fighting for gay rights, speaking out in various places and making friends, men and women, was great.

~George Weinberg

An essential idea is that if you give to some person or endeavor in life, you will make that more important.

~George Weinberg

And I've known people who came out with a sense of torture.

~George Weinberg

My dearest friend in the movement is Jack Nichols. If there were no such thing as gay or straight, we would still talk and share experiences till the end of time.

~George Weinberg

All who love are conspirators.

~George Weinberg

It wouldn't have mattered to my mother if I married a black, was gay, lived in a commune or wore a dress.

~George Weinberg

If every time you engage in a sex act, you go into a confession box, you will never accept your own sexuality.

~George Weinberg

I'm really not an avowed heterosexual. I'm no more proud of it than of being white or tall.

~George Weinberg

Coming out to gays is a way of affirming sanity and self-worth.

~George Weinberg

Men are actually the weaker sex.

~George Weinberg

Every man wants to feel that his woman would love him apart from anything else.

~George Weinberg

I felt like an apostle of the obvious and people imagined that I was doing something daring.

~George Weinberg

Men spend their whole lives showing that they're strong and silent.
They fight for independence the way women struggle to connect.

~George Weinberg

The world will step aside for nearly anyone who has the courage of his
of her opinions.

~George Weinberg

As I said, men value their independence in a weird way, above practically everything.
