America is a tune. It must be sung together.

~Gerald Stanley Lee

Turning the other cheek is a kind of moral jiu-jitsu.

~Gerald Stanley Lee

New York is the capital, the national headquarters of homelessness....
No one feels he belongs here.

~Gerald Stanley Lee

I have seen that Man moves over with each new generation into a bigger body, more awful, more reverent and more free than he has had before.

~Gerald Stanley Lee

What was invented two thousand years ago was the spirit of Christianity.

~Gerald Stanley Lee

The great man is the man who can get himself made and who will get himself made out of anything he finds at hand.

~Gerald Stanley Lee

Christmas is too large to be tucked away in the toe of a child's stocking.

~Gerald Stanley Lee

We may have hell if we have war, and we may have hell if we have peace. But if we have no vision for what we do, we have hell anyway.

~Gerald Stanley Lee

Crowds speak in heroes.

~Gerald Stanley Lee

No man living in a world as interesting as this ever writes a book if he can help it.

~Gerald Stanley Lee

It is never the machines that are dead. It is only the mechanically-minded men that are dead.

~Gerald Stanley Lee

When America has been discovered in America it will be discovered in Europe. They are looking for America now.

~Gerald Stanley Lee

The new industrial world is coming to us one new free-born industry at a time.

~Gerald Stanley Lee

Machinery is the subconscious mind of the world.

~Gerald Stanley Lee

A vice is a failure of desire

~Gerald Stanley Lee

To be original is to discover the commonplace of a thousand years--to face at first the sneer that no one would have thought of it, and at last the indifference because any one would.

~Gerald Stanley Lee

Machinery makes men like itself.
