If a good cartoonist can make a living making his comics, he'll continue to do that; the lesser insincere cartoonist that gets a lot of press will fall by the wayside eventually.

~Gilberto Hernandez Guerrero

I'm working so much I don't see the work of many young cartoonists so it's hard for me to tell which are my favourites. Maybe when I get to stick my head out of the sand I'll be able to let you know.

~Gilberto Hernandez Guerrero

When you're young you don't know anything, but you have lot of energy to express yourself. So you make a lot of mistakes and you stumble, but you also get a lot of truth from within.

~Gilberto Hernandez Guerrero

I've dealt with Hollywood about having my work made into a film or cartoon but nothing came of it. That's not to say I wouldn't like to see something happen.

~Gilberto Hernandez Guerrero

I wanted to do pretty much a purely boy story, yes. The girls are kind of the bad guys in 'Marble Season', although that wasn't my intention. It's also a world without adults.

~Gilberto Hernandez Guerrero

Anyone could identify with the human aspect of the characters.

~Gilberto Hernandez Guerrero

I'm basically stubborn. If anyone disapproved of my being influenced by comics, I simply ignored them.

~Gilberto Hernandez Guerrero

Sex is the main way we exist on the planet. It's an essential part of life.

~Gilberto Hernandez Guerrero

I've always been interested in the way males seem to need to start clubs, or cults, to keep girls out until they need them for sex. It comes from some weird immature tribal crap, I'm sure.

~Gilberto Hernandez Guerrero

Once we got going on the Fantagraphics version of Love and Rockets, our encouragement was constant. People wanted us to do more, do more. Thirty years later, here we are.

~Gilberto Hernandez Guerrero

It takes time to learn to draw. It takes years, not a few weeks.

~Gilberto Hernandez Guerrero

I've seen that most people change as they get older.

~Gilberto Hernandez Guerrero

Whichever character I'm using and wherever I am in my mind dictates what kind of story I'm going to tell.

~Gilberto Hernandez Guerrero

I grew up being really insecure and dumped on, over-feeling certain things in a negative way. So I thought I had something to prove.

~Gilberto Hernandez Guerrero

I know what a good movie is.

~Gilberto Hernandez Guerrero

In the old days, I just could not leave characters alone. Now I just try to keep the ones that still have something in the way of stories to tell.
