

Giorgio Vasari

Quotes

Men, Art, Beautiful, Drawing, Venice, Inspiration, Names, Hands, Night, Memories, Beauty, Demand, Fall, Long, Giotto, Littles, Mind, Children, Ideas, Wife

As long as art lives never shall I accept that men are truly dead.

~Giorgio Vasari

Inspiration demands the active cooperation of the intellect joined with enthusiasm, and it is under such conditions that marvelous conceptions, with all that is excellent and divine, come into being.

~Giorgio Vasari

Men of genius sometimes accomplish most when they work the least, for they are thinking out inventions and forming in their minds the perfect idea that they subsequently express with their hands.

~Giorgio Vasari

The best thing is to draw men and women from the nude and thus fix in the memory by constant exercise the muscles of the torso, back, legs, arms and knees, with bones underneath.

~Giorgio Vasari

Drawing is the necessary beginning of everything [in Art], and not having it, one has nothing.

~Giorgio Vasari

Man was not then considered a good goldsmith unless he could draw well.

~Giorgio Vasari

Related Links:

- Men Quotes
- Art Quotes
- Beautiful Quotes
- Drawing Quotes
- Venice Quotes
- Inspiration Quotes
- Names Quotes
- Hands Quotes
- Night Quotes
- Memories Quotes
- Beauty Quotes
- Demand Quotes
- Fall Quotes
- Long Quotes
- Giotto Quotes
- Littles Quotes
- Mind Quotes
- Children Quotes
- Ideas Quotes
- Wife Quotes