To have compassion for those who suffer is a human quality which everyone should possess, especially those who have required comfort themselves in the past and have managed to find it in others.

~Giovanni Boccaccio

It's better to repent what you enjoyed than to repent not having enjoyed anything.

~Giovanni Boccaccio

While farmers generally allow one rooster for ten hens, ten men are scarcely sufficient to service one woman.

~Giovanni Boccaccio

People tend to believe the bad rather than the good.

~Giovanni Boccaccio

In the affairs of this world, poverty alone is without envy.

~Giovanni Boccaccio

Nothing is so indecent that it cannot be said to another person if the proper words are used to convey it.

~Giovanni Boccaccio

In this world, you only get what you grab for.

~Giovanni Boccaccio

Human it is to have compassion on the unhappy.

~Giovanni Boccaccio

Heaven would indeed be heaven if lovers were there permitted as much enjoyment as they had experienced on earth.

~Giovanni Boccaccio

My mind is wholly possessed by Love, who rules every part there of, in virtue of his all-embracing deity.

~Giovanni Boccaccio

Kissed mouth don't lose its fortune, on the contrary it renews itself just as the moon does.

~Giovanni Boccaccio

Do as we say, and not as we do. [Lat., Faites ce que nous disons, et ne faites pas ce que nous faisons.]

~Giovanni Boccaccio

No-thing less splendid than a golden sepulchre would have suited so noble a heart.

~Giovanni Boccaccio

Much is required of those who are happy, especially if they have needed comforting in the past, and have received it.

~Giovanni Boccaccio
