

Grace Jones Quotes

Thinking, People, Men, Mother, Mean, Drug, Fur, Believe, Rocks, Growing Up, Sex, Long, School, Voice, Singers, Sometimes, Years, Song, Girl, Children

I believe in individuality, that everybody is special, and it's up to them to find that quality and let it live.

~Grace Jones

We're not perfect; we all have things that people might not like to see, and I like to show my faults.

~Grace Jones

I go feminine, I go masculine. I am both, actually. I think the male side is a bit stronger in me, and I have to tone it down sometimes. I'm not like a normal woman, that's for sure.

~Grace Jones

I thought I'd take style to its limit... My philosophy is a belief in magic, good luck, self-confidence, and pride.

~Grace Jones

This is depression, it comes when your blocking. This is expression it comes when you're rocking

~Grace Jones

Whatever one is creating, one has to stick to one's guns and just do it. That is all. Put your foot down and do not let your work be compromised.

~Grace Jones

Forget health clinics and gyms. Sex is the best cure. One good night of sex and your problems are gone.

~Grace Jones

Everyone has to make their own decisions. I still believe in that. You just have to be able to accept the consequences without complaining.

~Grace Jones

If people think I'm angry, I don't want to burst anybody's bubble. I like sometimes for people to be afraid of me. But it's not really anger; it's discipline.

~Grace Jones

You can be a boy, a girl, whatever you want. I have a lot of man in me.

~Grace Jones

Survival is my primary instinct...it's out of my control. It's stronger than me. It's an outside force, a voice that says 'do this for your life or it will devour you.'

~Grace Jones

I'm too vain, one of my biggest sins, but it saved me; I can see what excess does.

~Grace Jones

I just go with the flow, I follow the yellow brick road. I don't know where it's going to lead me, but I follow it.

~Grace Jones

I don't know what I'm going to be doing in two years or even in two weeks. I have to live for today.

~Grace Jones

I never do what anyone else is doing. I could walk away from music and become a farmer or do some crochet. The worst thing in life for me is to do something I'm not happy doing.

~Grace Jones

I have just as much woman in me as I have man. It's just a matter of channeling the energy into which way you use it.

~Grace Jones

I don't collaborate. You're born alone, you die alone, you get on stage alone.

~Grace Jones

My father would have been made a bishop much earlier than he was had it not been for me and my image.

~Grace Jones

Now when I enter a carriage, it almost empties. But there's always one brave enough to stay.

~Grace Jones

Models are there to look like mannequins, not like real people. Art and illusion are supposed to be fantasy.

~Grace Jones

I believe in having certain releases, certain outlets. One has to indulge. If you don't indulge, you don't live -might as well be dead. I believe in indulging as a user and not as an abuser.

~Grace Jones

It was very painful combing my hair. My grand-uncle was a Pentecostal bishop, and he was very strict: our hair couldn't be permed or straightened. So I just cut it all off.

~Grace Jones

I like to think of myself as a positive person. Otherwise I wouldn't have had a child.

~Grace Jones

Whatever; bling always has something to hide.

~Grace Jones

I was skinny as a rail and had high cheekbones and a very interesting

face - or so I was told.

~Grace Jones

That's what they do in Argentina. Have a little wine and talk. Then have some coffee and talk. Then, go back to the wine.

~Grace Jones

It's ridiculous for a woman to say that she's not attracted to other women. That's completely false.

~Grace Jones

I never thought I was going to be a singer. That was an accident.

~Grace Jones

Music has its own depths, and I let it take me where it takes me, even if it means stripping all my clothes off.

~Grace Jones

I was the only black girl at my junior high school. I had an afro, a Jamaican accent, I looked really old.

~Grace Jones

I'm not as impatient as I used to be. I used to hit people if I didn't like what they were saying. Just lash out. 'Bam - shut up! Hahahah!' I was terrible.

~Grace Jones

I've turned down millions of dollars to go on reality TV. It's an absolute no-go.

~Grace Jones

Disco was like the celebration of music through dance and my God! When you heard the music sometimes it was like, if you don't get up and dance, you aren't human!

~Grace Jones

I'm not a rock star, I'm a soft person.

~Grace Jones

I came from a very strict background, and didn't hear any Jamaican music when I was growing up.

~Grace Jones

When I perform on stage I become those male bullies, those dominators from my childhood. That's probably why it's so scary, because they scared me.

~Grace Jones

Prescription drugs can be even worse than illegal drugs. The only difference is the legality.

~Grace Jones

When you start in that [model] business the rules are imposed upon you, but when you stay in the business long enough the rules could be broken.

~Grace Jones

I would have rebelled against parental authority, no matter what. When I was 15, I started painting my face and making my own clothes.

~Grace Jones

Growing up in Jamaica, the Pentecostal church wasn't that fiery thing you might think. It was very British, very proper. Hymns. No dancing. Very quiet. Very fundamental.

~Grace Jones

I love women, but I've never had a relationship with a woman.

~Grace Jones

I like to isolate myself when I work because I end up losing my voice by doing interviews all day.

~Grace Jones

I wear my furs all the time. I wear like three different ones in a day.

~Grace Jones

I like dressing like a guy. I love it. When I was modeling I used to do pictures where I would dress up like my little brother. No makeup and I looked like a boy.

~Grace Jones

My mother was a champion high-jumper. My three brothers are basketball players. We've all been very athletic.

~Grace Jones

I like working until the morning, so I can see the day and then I like to go to sleep and then get up before sunset. But I love the energy of the morning.

~Grace Jones

When you become such a strong personality in music, it's hard for people to accept you as a different character.

~Grace Jones

I don't think 'pop' should mean that you had no talent.

~Grace Jones

I hate prescription drugs! They don't tell you everything that is in them.

~Grace Jones

I'm still shocked every time I see snow. The first bit of snow each year... I stay up and I watch it. And then I go out and pick it up and eat it and move around in it.

~Grace Jones

I can look at a fur and tell if it's good or not.

~Grace Jones

Even if I sing like a robot, it is still an emotional robot.

~Grace Jones

I don't like people who hide things.

~Grace Jones

You can't expect your children to be perfect.

~Grace Jones

I am an actress first, a singer second.

~Grace Jones

I only started getting into furs when the designers I liked started making them.

~Grace Jones

I don't take the English press seriously at all because all they want is dirt... I hate them.

~Grace Jones

Rock n' roll can get quite overwhelming. You can get caught up in the cycle.

~Grace Jones

Some songs come from my head, some from my throat, but there will always be moments when it is an injection of the soul.

~Grace Jones

My husband used to shout at my mother, 'What is wrong with your daughter? I'm married to a man.'

~Grace Jones

To be honest, my life is not really as way-out and myth-loaded as people like to portray it.

~Grace Jones

Related Links:

- Thinking Quotes
- People Quotes
- Men Quotes
- Mother Quotes
- Mean Quotes
- Drug Quotes
- Fur Quotes
- Believe Quotes
- Rocks Quotes
- Growing Up Quotes
- Sex Quotes
- Long Quotes
- School Quotes
- Voice Quotes
- Singers Quotes
- Sometimes Quotes
- Years Quotes
- Song Quotes
- Girl Quotes
- Children Quotes