To me, style is like your fingerprint. Nobody else has it.

~Gregory Heisler

I never do pictures that I've done before - but I really try not to. Whenever I get an assignment I try to think how to shoot this person for this story in this magazine at this point in time.

~Gregory Heisler

People aren't hiring just a picture, they're hiring someone they can work with. That plays a big role .

~Gregory Heisler

My brother used to say some people have an "inferiority simplex." It's not that they're under the delusion that they're inferior; they actually are inferior and they secretly know it.

~Gregory Heisler

There's no reason you'd shoot Mother Theresa and Newt Gingrich the same way.

~Gregory Heisler

I wanted to grow in terms of making pictures, not adapting to new software and technology. But that's the game now.

~Gregory Heisler

The last thing people want is a surprise, these days.

~Gregory Heisler

Digital held no romance for me at all. I hated it. I miss my big cameras. The working process, I miss it.

~Gregory Heisler

There are a lot of decisions to make, creatively. Now, with digital, you can really be the author of your own work. From the beginning to the end of the process, you control everything.

~Gregory Heisler

A photographer is responsible for creating a climate in which they can do their best work.

~Gregory Heisler

Shoot what you can't help but shoot
