Writing without making mistakes is like vomiting hot air.

~Gunter Brus

The pencil-stroke is like cutting into the heart.

~Gunter Brus

Art is beautiful but it is hard, like a religion without a purpose.

~Gunter Brus

The white room is an interior to be made devoid of any specific sensualism emanated by objects. Ultimately it is classic white canvas expanded into three-dimensional space.

~Gunter Brus

My body is the intention. My body is the event. My body is the result.

~Gunter Brus

Art is gushing hot bile on the fields and harvesting the looks of nasty dwarfs.

~Gunter Brus

You become an artist to upset your family.

~Gunter Brus

As a boy, I was extremely shy, certainly as a result of my upbringing. I was an expert blusher, and some of my harsh actions may echo this shyness by way of compensation.

~Gunter Brus

Color will play no part in the art of future.

~Gunter Brus

Art is created in a state of delirium. Anything else is the restoration of monuments. Collectors are artists that do not have a home. They have to make one for themselves.

~Gunter Brus

Poetry is when words are robbed of their attributed truth.

~Gunter Brus

I want to cover all areas that can be depicted visually. This ranges from fairytales to attempts to enter the abstract and view oneself as a social outcast or someone struggling to stay alive.

~Gunter Brus

My picture-poems are linguistic margins on visual atolls.
