Culture is not usually one of the criterion for personhood, but it has been argued that culture is sort of a medium for a lot of these criteria, such as empathy, and so on.

~Hal Whitehead

Whales are cultural animals, and we're cultural animals, so although we shouldn't expect whales to do what we do, it doesn't seem unreasonable to hypothesize that we might share some of these things.

~Hal Whitehead

A bunch of individuals do the same thing because they learned from watching each other or somebody else. That's what we would call culture.
