Maybe one day the old guys will die off and things will change, 'cuz it's officially getting scary over here in America.

~Hank Williams III

And I flirted with the devil and he dealt me a card. He told me that you will never win. So I sold my soul to the devil. I never thought it could be this bad. And I got the devil takin' me away

~Hank Williams III

The name alone usually attracts about 50 or so curiosity seekers to the show. We know if we're playing the Policeman's Ball or something to have the proper respect, but we like to get rowdy.

~Hank Williams III

Balance is always tough with the kind of shows and my work ethic and all of that, but that definitely helps me do what I do in the big picture.

~Hank Williams III

My mom nor my father never pushed me into the music business. I always did it because I wanted to.

~Hank Williams III

I always wanted to have my own farm. I've never been able to achieve that. It's kinda tough.

~Hank Williams III

I would have to go back to being a dog. I've called myself a dog for many years.

~Hank Williams III

A one-night stand that waited three years to tell me I had a son. I needed cash flow fast, It was time to get into the business.

~Hank Williams III

I've never left for New York. I've stood my ground here my whole career and hopefully will be able to until the day that I die.

~Hank Williams III

The vocals are the very last thing I do. So, it's kinda the opposite: with country, it's singing and guitar first, but with rock, I worry about the riff and music, vocals last.

~Hank Williams III

In a way, being raised on the farm and doing chores and stuff it's a natural thing for me to want to work outside. It's almost kind of like a rehabilitation for me with doing that.

~Hank Williams III

Animals have always been therapeutic for me to work with; they help me get me grounded from being on the road.

~Hank Williams III

The rush of creating sounds and mixing sounds is always an interesting challenge, especially for someone like me, who doesn't know about sound.
