There are some writers who also enjoy being authors, and are good at it as well. There is nothing performative about writing, but there is about being a writer.

~Hanya Yanagihara

If you start asking how do we make life meaningful and life never ends, then you get into sort of these terrible sort of metaphysical quandaries and it gets really, really bleak looking.

~Hanya Yanagihara

In the 1950s that tug-of-war between the expectations of behaving normally and the limitlessness of thinking freely produces some very strange characters.
