Teachers, I believe, are the most responsible and important members of society because their professional efforts affect the fate of the earth.

~Helen Caldicott

You're going to have to change the priorities of your life, if you love this planet.

~Helen Caldicott

Patriotism is nationalism, and always leads to war.

~Helen Caldicott

It is clear to me that unless we connect directly with the earth, we will not have the faintest clue why we should save it.

~Helen Caldicott

The problem with addicted people, communities, corporations, or countries is that they tend to lie, cheat, or steal to get their 'fix.' Corporations are addicted to profit and governments to power.

~Helen Caldicott

Politics is not really politics any more. It is run, for the most part, by Madison Avenue advertising firms, who sell politicians to the public the way they sell bars of soap or cans of beer.

~Helen Caldicott

The U.S. population, a mere four or five percent of the world total, creates half the world's toxic waste.

~Helen Caldicott

The power of an aroused public is unbeatable.

~Helen Caldicott

Capitalism is destroying the earth.

~Helen Caldicott

in terms of the biology of the planet, development is a euphemism for destruction.

~Helen Caldicott

Every time you turn on an electric light, you are making another brainless baby.

~Helen Caldicott

We are the curators of life on earth. We hold it in the palm of our hand.

~Helen Caldicott

I have witnessed the takeover of my world by plastic.

~Helen Caldicott

Cuba is a wonderful country. What Castro's done is superb.

~Helen Caldicott

The whole world is being 'deculturalized' into a uniform 'Coca-Cola society,' wanting and needing an American way of life.
