The lands are lit with all the autumn blaze of golden-rod, and everywhere the purple asters nod and bend and wave and flit.

~Helen Hunt

The tongue is more easily controlled than the features of the face; and though the heart may be secret, the face is transparent.

~Helen Hunt

We can live a life full and complete, thinking with our heads but living from our hearts.

~Helen Hunt

When you first entered the restaurant, I thought you were handsome... and then, of course, you spoke.

~Helen Hunt

O suns and skies and clouds of June, and flowers of June together. Ye cannot rival for one hour October's bright blue weather.

~Helen Hunt

I think that all of us are 5-year-olds and we don't want to be embarrassed in the schoolyard.

~Helen Hunt

I do eat well. I try to love my body. That is what I tell my daughter. I say, 'Love every bite of food. Love your body. We're all going to be dead soon.' Actually I don't say that last thing to her.

~Helen Hunt

I think I'm a weird combination of deeply introverted and very daring. I can feel both those things working.

~Helen Hunt

Marriage takes your whole heart; selfish people can't pull it off.

~Helen Hunt

I've always had to force myself to make friends and speak to people. My parents were quiet, and it took me a while to get used to the fact that people talk about their feelings, their problems.

~Helen Hunt

Words are less needful to sorrow than to joy.

~Helen Hunt

A small step in a good direction.

~Helen Hunt

Pity and friendship seek different habitations.

~Helen Hunt

You either have a baby, want a baby, or don't want a baby, but you don't nothing a baby if you're in your 30s or 40s.

~Helen Hunt

Oh, write of me, not Died in bitter pains, but Emigrated to another star!

~Helen Hunt

All nights are sacred nights to make confession and resolve and prayer;
all days are sacred days to wake new gladness in the sunny air.

~Helen Hunt

We all feel disabled in some way. We all feel imperfect. It's hard to be looked at for various reasons.

~Helen Hunt

I worked before I had my daughter, enough for three actresses.

~Helen Hunt

I know for me the subject of how to be in a relationship is precious and complicated and challenging.

~Helen Hunt

Art is a place where you can be wild. Kids-all of us-need that.

~Helen Hunt

The Oscar sits on some shelf above my desk. If there was an earthquake, I could actually be killed by my own Academy Award.

~Helen Hunt

As soon as I began, it seemed impossible to write fast enough - I wrote faster than I would write a letter - two thousand to three thousand words in a morning, and I cannot help it.

~Helen Hunt

I usually don't read things written about me and I certainly don't read things if they are inappropriate.

~Helen Hunt

I think I have more of a director's brain than an actor's brain, in a way.

~Helen Hunt

You have five seconds to enjoy it and then you remember who you didn't thank.

~Helen Hunt

Women who say it's not O.K. are [interpreted as] wet blankets or sore losers.

~Helen Hunt

The best movies have one sentence that they're exploring, a thesis, something that people can argue about over dinner afterward.

~Helen Hunt

I actually have a life I said I wanted to have. I wanted to tell stories I want and be with my family. I'm whispering it, because I'm a quarter Jewish and afraid it's all going to be taken away.

~Helen Hunt

But the truth is I wanted to have my daughter for so long. It's not the kind of thing you can visit, motherhood. Especially in the early years. Now she's eight, and I'm still not going to go anywhere.

~Helen Hunt

I loved Julia Louis-Dreyfus's show 'The New Adventures of Old Christine.' That made me laugh out loud. She's like Lucille Ball. She's brilliant.
