Absence, Crime*

The name of mistress instead of wife would be dearer and more honourable for me, only love given freely, rather than the constriction of the marriage tie, is of significance to an ideal relationship.

~Heloise

When my self is not with you, it is nowhere.

~Heloise

Riches and power are but gifts of blind fate, whereas goodness is the result of one's own merits.

~Heloise

We fluctuate long between love and hatred before we can arrive at tranquillity.

~Heloise

What cannot letters inspire? They have souls; they can speak; they have in them all that force which expresses the transports of the heart.

~Heloise

it is not the deed but the intention that makes the crime.

~Heloise

I am convinced by a sad experience that it is natural to avoid those to whom we have been too much obliged, and that uncommon generosity causes neglect rather than gratitude.

~Heloise

The heart overwhelmed by grief knows no rest.

~Heloise

Would that thy love, beloved, had less trust in me, that it might be more anxious!

~Heloise

Prosperity seldom chooses the side of the virtuous.

~Heloise

the higher the step of advancement, the heavier is the fall.
