Happiness writes in white ink on a white page.

~Henry de Montherlant

We like someone because. We love someone although.

~Henry de Montherlant

I have only the idea I have made of myself to sustain me on oceans of nothingness

~Henry de Montherlant

We have understood nothing of life until we have understood that it is one vast confusion.

~Henry de Montherlant

Most affections are habits or duties we lack the courage to end.

~Henry de Montherlant

Throughout history the world has been laid waste to ensure the triumph of conceptions that are now as dead as the men that died for them.

~Henry de Montherlant

A man doesn't dream about a woman because he thinks her "mysterious"; he decides that she is "mysterious" to justify his dreaming of her.

~Henry de Montherlant

There is only one way to be prepared for death: to be sated. In the soul, in the heart, in the spirit, in the flesh. To the brim.

~Henry de Montherlant

It is because he was unhappy that God created the world.

~Henry de Montherlant

Religion is the venereal disease of mankind.

~Henry de Montherlant

It's when the thing itself is missing that you have to supply the word.

~Henry de Montherlant

It is through chance that, from among the various individuals of which each of us is composed, one emerges rather than another.

~Henry de Montherlant

The United States is evil ... it is the canker of the world.

~Henry de Montherlant

Great ideas are not charitable.

~Henry de Montherlant

One puts into one's art what one has not been capable of putting into one's existence. It is because he was unhappy that God created the world.

~Henry de Montherlant

The United States is evil.

~Henry de Montherlant
