I had discovered that learning something, no matter how complex, wasn't hard when I had a reason to want to know it.

~Homer Hickam

Not much comes easy in this world, Sonny. If it does, it's best to be suspicious of it. It's probably not worth much.

~Homer Hickam

I didn't care about heroes who could read minds or walk through walls or do magic. The heroes I liked had courage and knew more real stuff than those who opposed them.

~Homer Hickam

A rocket won't fly unless somebody lights the fuse!

~Homer Hickam

I would tell people some years later that I was raised an only child and so was my brother.

~Homer Hickam

There are two things every woman really wants: one, she wants to know that a man really loves her, and two, that he isn't going to stop.

~Homer Hickam

A man can't hit a woman and stay a man. He becomes a loathsome thing, even to himself. But the woman who stays with such a man panders to his darkness. They both risk their souls.

~Homer Hickam

It is better to confess ignorance than provide it.

~Homer Hickam

A lot of folks just get it in their head that, for instance, like writing memoirs is just easy. You just write down what happened. It doesn't quite work that way.

~Homer Hickam

I have never been able to understand anyone on this planet who lacks a need for knowledge. Is it not God's greatest gift to us all, this capacity to think, to wonder, to imagine?

~Homer Hickam

Always I try to write about people. People are interested in other people always.

~Homer Hickam

The key to not getting rejected if you're writing for a magazine, is to know to read that magazine and know everything about them before you ever make a submission.
