Frankly, I was surprised at how generous the Japanese press has been to the idea of a foreigner running Sony.

~Howard Stringer

Free is not an alternative. My company did not turn a profit last year.

~Howard Stringer

No other content company has Sony's intuitive grasp of technology and no other company has Sony's intimate understanding of the demands of content.

~Howard Stringer

In the digital world, he who hesitates is abandoned. So you have to generate 3-D excitement with as many devices as you can find.

~Howard Stringer

Sometimes Hollywood is a small town on the West Coast of America at the furthest point from everywhere else, and that can make it a little provincial and insular.

~Howard Stringer

I was very short. Everybody else was two years older in my class, and I had curly hair and was teacher's pet.

~Howard Stringer

Video games lend themselves completely to 3-D.

~Howard Stringer

I have to determine whether the joy of craplets is worth preserving.

~Howard Stringer

People are going to like 3-D in their family photos.

~Howard Stringer

Japan can't get anything on the market very cheaply because it has a large, relatively highly paid workforce which you can't fire.

~Howard Stringer

I left the golden age of documentaries to go into the golden days of the 'CBS Evening News.' You could see that the audiences were eroding.

~Howard Stringer

You will see a 3-D movie in a movie theater for the shared experience of it - or for a date, and so on. You don't all sit at home getting your entertainment in a vacuum.

~Howard Stringer

Content and technology are strange bed fellows. We are joined together. Sometimes we misunderstand each other. But isn't that after all the definition of marriage?
