Basically, my life is so boring, it's embarrassing.

~Hugh Grant

You know everyone loves to be the villain.

~Hugh Grant

My grandmother was utterly convinced I'd wind up as the Archbishop of Canterbury. And, to be honest, I've never entirely ruled it out.

~Hugh Grant

I just don't believe in love at first sight any more, even though I've based my whole career on the concept.

~Hugh Grant

I'm a laugh tart. I make no secret of that fact.

~Hugh Grant

Now [after doing Pilates], I have muscles of steel and could easily deal with giving birth.

~Hugh Grant

I cling to the fantasy that I could have done something more creative. Like actually writing a script, or writing a book. But the awful truth is that I... probably can't!

~Hugh Grant

There is space in the supermarket shelf for all of us.

~Hugh Grant

The only reason my work seems to be eclectic up to a certain period is because I was a failure as an actor.

~Hugh Grant

But when you're a celebrity, you discover that you're no longer the pursuer, but the one being pursued. That's one of the disappointments I have had since becoming a single man.

~Hugh Grant

I had Courtney Love's left bosom out of her dress on my plate in front of me. It was extraordinary. I didn't know where to look.

~Hugh Grant

And film acting is incredibly tedious, just by its nature. It's incredibly, mind numbingly slow.

~Hugh Grant

Plus, teaching brings home to you very fast that you actually know nothing. I didn't realize that before.

~Hugh Grant

I could do with more mobbing. Particularly from women. I'd like to be treated like Ricky Martin.

~Hugh Grant

The reason I turn down 99% of a hundred, I mean a thousand, scripts is because romantic comedies are often very romantic but seldom very funny.

~Hugh Grant

I find it hard to understand why Scorsese has never called. You know, given the natural menace I bring to the screen.

~Hugh Grant

I don't particularly like babies. I don't mind them for about four minutes. That's my max. After that I can't quite see what everyone's fussing about.

~Hugh Grant

I don't have any particular burning desire to go back to being cuddly. Not really.

~Hugh Grant

When I think about actors I know, I'd much rather hear about who they're shagging than what film they're doing next.

~Hugh Grant

I quite like Pilates now. I have a Pilates girl in every city.

~Hugh Grant

But I just know from experience that accent wise, even if you're an accent genius, crossing the Atlantic is the hardest thing in the world either way.

~Hugh Grant

Strangely enough I'm better on a stage. I love that I feel like I blossom in front of a whole bunch of people.

~Hugh Grant

For any new technology there is always controversy and there always some fear associated with it. I think that's just the price of being first sometimes.

~Hugh Grant

My dad used to have to open the second bottle of wine in the loo in case Mum heard the cork coming out.

~Hugh Grant

The moral of filmmaking in Britain is that you will be screwed by the weather.

~Hugh Grant

And I particularly like the whole thing of being boss. Boss and employee... It's the slave quality that I find very alluring.

~Hugh Grant

I think that's the whole point of Bridget Jones. It's all about that it's okay to fail.

~Hugh Grant

In the last couple of weeks I have seen the ads for the Wonder Bra. Is that really a problem in this country? Men not paying enough attention to women's breasts?

~Hugh Grant

At home, I hardly ever leave London. I don't like the countryside in England.

~Hugh Grant

I love in Notting Hill. You live in Beverly Hills. Everyone in the world knows who you are. My mother has trouble remembering my name.

~Hugh Grant

I don't think there's much point in putting me a deep, dark, heavy, emotional film because there are people who do it so much better than I do.

~Hugh Grant

I play the sort of character who would sell his grandmother for career advancement, something I've come across a lot with actors.

~Hugh Grant

Women are frightening. If you get to 41 as a man, you're quite battle-scarred.
