I think I'm a bit of a dreamer. I don't like the reality of life to impinge much on my life.

~Hugo Weaving

Film has a tendency to be limiting in some way and it shouldn't be. It's a form that can be explored and changed.

~Hugo Weaving

We're all outsiders in a way. We're all alone and can become very lonely

~Hugo Weaving

I used to have two double espressos a day. I gave that up, had headaches for five days but now I'm feeling great.

~Hugo Weaving

I was on top of Keanu Reeves, he was on his back and I was on my trunk, and I was breathing down his neck for hours and hours. It was... very erotic.

~Hugo Weaving

It's kind of chased away a few demons for me and, um, it's educated me a little bit more.

~Hugo Weaving

I packed coffee once when I lived in Australia, and I just remember going around every day with coffee up my nose and in my ears.

~Hugo Weaving

When you're a kid you have this sense of wonder and wholeness and a strong sense of your own identity.

~Hugo Weaving

I think when your image becomes so big that it's hard for a viewer to see a character, then I think you're in danger as an actor of being unable to perform what you should be doing.

~Hugo Weaving

It's a real pleasure to go to work when you're in the most extraordinary surroundings, and working with people who are young and interested and creatively keen.

~Hugo Weaving

I keep thinking I should get a phone, because everyone's got one and it becomes increasingly difficult to exist in a society where everyone else has moved ahead and you haven't.

~Hugo Weaving

I generally find an affinity with a lot of the people I play and I suppose if I didn't feel an affinity for them then they wouldn't be particularly good performances.

~Hugo Weaving

I guess I judge my films by how pleased I am with the work I do, so it's kind of on another level. If they do well at the box office, then that's great. Then I'm really pleased about that too.

~Hugo Weaving

There's nothing like being on a massive-budget film where you don't know anything, and there's a million people, and no one's communicating.

~Hugo Weaving

One of the positive aspects from my point of view in terms of lifestyle doing film is that I can say "Well, I'm now going to have three months where I'm just going to hang out and be with the family".

~Hugo Weaving

If a film isn't really talking about who we are and what our psychologies are, then we're probably not that interested in it, actually.

~Hugo Weaving

I certainly don't advocate terrorism as a way of progressing and understanding people, nor do I believe labeling everything as a terrorist act is helpful either.

~Hugo Weaving

Film sets are constantly amusing because you really are creating something that is so very surreal, and I kind of like that.

~Hugo Weaving

Both my parents are English and I was born in West Africa, and I moved around as a kid, lived in Bristol, lived in Buckinghamshire and Surrey as a kid, and then moved when I was 16.

~Hugo Weaving

Across the board, Australian films need to have a lot more money spent on selling them.

~Hugo Weaving

I think any role you need to play not so much transforms but I like to think of it as understanding the psychology of another character.

~Hugo Weaving

If the script grabs me and appeals to me, I'm really very keen to work on it.

~Hugo Weaving

I think often in film we limit our imaginations a little - well, quite a lot, actually things get quite formulaic.

~Hugo Weaving

I still, by and large, make low-budget Australian films.

~Hugo Weaving

I'm so used to Australian films not getting a release outside Australia.

~Hugo Weaving

People are more likely to pass me on the street without recognizing me, and that's good.

~Hugo Weaving

Never send a human to do a machine's job.

~Hugo Weaving

Being in the woods at night is a beautiful thing.

~Hugo Weaving

As an actor, to do all sorts of different films is great.

~Hugo Weaving

It's great to blow the image that people have of me out of the water.

~Hugo Weaving

I'm always trepidatious and excited about what I do. I wouldn't choose to do something, unless I am really excited about it.

~Hugo Weaving

To me acting originally became an extension of game playing.

~Hugo Weaving

I do feel like I'm not entirely an insider.

~Hugo Weaving

The great thing about stage is that you have a live audience.

~Hugo Weaving

As an actor, to play someone who's at war with himself, that's so interesting.

~Hugo Weaving

I kind of like the challenge of jumping into totally different spaces and styles and figuring out how to fit in.
