If you advise someone on the condition that they have to accept it, then you are an oppressor.

~Ibn Hazm

Anyone who criticizes you cares about your friendship. Anyone who makes light of your faults cares nothing about you.

~Ibn Hazm

Knowledge no longer exists if one has ignored the attributes of the Almighty Great Creator.

~Ibn Hazm

Glad-tidings to he who knows his own faults more than other people know it.

~Ibn Hazm

What indicates a person's weak religion and fear of God, is that he seeks for an opinion that suits his desire.

~Ibn Hazm

Truthfulness is composed of justice and courage.

~Ibn Hazm

One hour of neglect can undo a year of pious effort.

~Ibn Hazm

If your pride leads you to boast, you will be doubly guilty, because your intelligence will have shown that it is incapable of controlling your pride.

~Ibn Hazm

Anyone who rises above the things of this world, to which you kneel, is mightier than you.

~Ibn Hazm

The wise man knows the only fitting price for his soul is a place in Paradise.

~Ibn Hazm

No one is moved to act, or resolves to speak a single word, who does not hope by means of this action or word to release anxiety from his spirit.

~Ibn Hazm

And though the years before I die stretch out interminably, I shall only count my life in truth as that brief hour of happy youth.

~Ibn Hazm
