You could cover the whole earth with asphalt, but sooner or later green grass would break through.

~Ilya Ehrenburg

We shall kill. If you have not killed at least one German a day, you have wasted that day... Do not count days; do not count miles. Count only the number of Germans you have killed.

~Ilya Ehrenburg

Knowledge has outstripped character development, and the young today are given an education rather than an upbringing.

~Ilya Ehrenburg

Music has a great advantage: without mentioning anything, it can say everything.

~Ilya Ehrenburg

Kill the Germans, wherever you find them! Every German is our moral enemy. Have no mercy on women, children, or the aged! Kill every German - wipe them out!

~Ilya Ehrenburg

Every master knows that the material teaches the artist.

~Ilya Ehrenburg

There is no progress in art.

~Ilya Ehrenburg

There is nothing more wonderful than freedom of speech.

~Ilya Ehrenburg

People seldom learn from the mistakes of others-not because they deny the value of the past, but because they are faced with new problems.

~Ilya Ehrenburg

It's as much a writer's concern, who is responsible to his readers for all the books written before him as well as those which will be written after him.

~Ilya Ehrenburg

Time narrows or expands according to how we approach it. It varies with a man's breadth, with his heart.

~Ilya Ehrenburg

Man is apt to be more moved by the art of his own period, not because it is more perfect, but because it is organically related to him.
