What's a hero if not for its journey.

~J.H. Wyman

'Blade Runner' is one of my favorite films.

I grew up watching a lot of French cinema.

~J.H. Wyman

A lot of people plan for failure, but they don't plan for success, and that's a big problem, especially in the TV world 'cause you're trying to find out what your show is.

~J.H. Wyman

Never in my career have I got the support for what I'm doing, any more than I have on Fringe.

~J.H. Wyman

The way that I work is that I try to work in metaphors, and you can't write a metaphor unless you know where you're going, so I always think about the future.

~J.H. Wyman

I'm consistently telling stories about the value of the human condition and connectedness and things like that.

~J.H. Wyman

My favorite novels allow me to imagine the characters afterward and what happened, and that I've witnessed a really great story, where the world goes on.

~J.H. Wyman

The heart is an organ of fire and you can't stop it from feeling or connecting.

~J.H. Wyman

The whole message of the piece was that possessions are transient. You don't know if you are going to be able to have time with somebody, so you better be careful.

~J.H. Wyman

You just have to learn to get really good at choosing your moments and making sure that your story isn't overwhelmed by the effects, and that your emotional storyline is what's driving the train.

~J.H. Wyman

The future that I see celebrates those types of like-minded ideals and ideas. I don't know what's coming, but I know that we're not going to get knocked out so easy.

~J.H. Wyman

You realize that everything is a moving budget, and sometimes you've got to borrow from Peter to pay Paul, to make it happen.

~J.H. Wyman

Sometimes something you thought wouldn't really be as big as it was blows up into something else.

~J.H. Wyman

Another part of the challenge was to bring back things that you've forgotten about and maybe some things you haven't forgotten about, recontextualize them and have the series make sense.

~J.H. Wyman

What's a hero, if not for its journey. I think you're going to recontextualize what saving the world means, and I think that you will be satisfied with the stakes. That's all I can say about that.

~J.H. Wyman

People get nervous when things move to Friday. Friday has become a landscape where shows just don't do very well as business for the network.

~J.H. Wyman

No love story worth telling is easy. The hills and valleys that make a relationship, in my opinion, is really a dynamic worth watching.

~J.H. Wyman

You don't know what's coming for you in life, and you don't know what's around the corner. When you're in a great deal of pain, you're only imagining your world the way it is.

~J.H. Wyman

I fell in love with the possibilities of telling the story in the future, and married that quickly.

~J.H. Wyman

Fortunately, at the end of every season, we close the chapter and start anew. That's the language of the series now, so it can organically come to a conclusion that we love.
