I try to have reasonably happy endings because I would hate any child to be cast down in gloom and despair; I want to show them you can find a way out of it.

~Jacqueline Wilson

I have this belief that children become readers before they can read. They become hooked on books because they were read aloud to as a child.

Elsa's joke Where do baby apes sleep? In apricots!

~Jacqueline Wilson

Well, I didn't need them. I didn't need anyone. I was Lola Rose. I just wished I looked more like my idea of Lola Rose.

~Jacqueline Wilson

You shouldn't call them anything. They're poor unfortunate people who cannot help the way they look.

~Jacqueline Wilson

will you stop trying to be brave! It's me, Mama! You can be honest with me." -Hetty
